Jetco Delivery Receives 2012 Fleet Safety Grand Trophy

AUSTIN – Texas Motor Transportation Association (TMTA) awarded Jetco Delivery the 2012 Grand Trophy at the Fleet Safety Awards luncheon during the TMTA annual conference this August. The acclaimed award is given annually to an exceptional member company who is judged to have the most complete and effective safety program in the Texas trucking industry. Since 2001, Great West Casualty Company has been the proud sponsor of the Fleet Safety Awards in Texas.

“We are immensely proud of Jetco Delivery and congratulate Brian Fielkow and the entire Jetco team on the award of the Fleet Safety Grand Trophy,” said TMTA President and CEO John D. Esparza. “As one of Texas’ top companies, they have an unsurpassed commitment to safety and outstanding dedication to excellence. Jetco Delivery sets a high standard for our industry and we congratulate them on this exceptional recognition.”

The Grand Trophy selection process is based not only on a low accident frequency ratio, but a company’s over-all safety program including safety program organization and driver selection procedures. Training, supervision, inspection and maintenance of equipment and outside activities promoting safety on Texas’ highways are also considered. Jetco Delivery is a Houston-based trucking and freight services provider.

TMTA President and CEO John Esparza and Immediate Past Chairman David Bishop presented the award in conjunction with Texas Fleet Safety Award Sponsors Phil Mahoney and Scott Sullins with Great West Casualty Company. Brian Fielkow, president of Jetco Delivery, accepted the prestigious award along with Jetco Driver Perry Rogers and Safety Director Steve Davis.

“On behalf of the Jetco team, we are both proud and humbled to have received this tremendous recognition from TMTA and our peers,” Fielkow said. “At our company, safety is a core value, and we invest tremendously in our ‘Driving to Perfection’ culture. Professional truck drivers are the ambassadors of the road and their protection of the traveling public is something that we take very seriously. We are also proud of our long-standing affiliation with the TMTA, which is an outstanding resource for our industry in numerous areas, including safety excellence.”
