Meet the Darden Team

The faculty for the Executive Education program were selected to provide a solid framework for future success in strategically managing, developing, and leading an organization. The faculty for any given session may vary, however, based on program needs and faculty availability.

Robert L. Carraway
Associate Professor of Business Administration | Area Coordinator, Quantitative Analysis
Robert is an authority on the appropriate and constructive use of quantitative analysis in making important decisions. He focuses on the relationship between intuition and rational analysis and how the two can complement one another, as well as on the role analysis can play in innovating more effectively and efficiently. He has co-written a quantitative analysis case book as well as a number of papers and Darden cases on the topic.

Thomas J. Steenburgh
Richard S. Reynolds Professor of Business Administration | Senior Associate Dean for Faculty Development and Residential MBA Program
Thomas is an expert in business-to-business marketing and sales and frequently speaks about his work in public forums. His academic research addresses questions that help managers measure the effectiveness of their sales and marketing strategies. He’s worked on issues such as whether lump-sum bonuses motivate salespeople to work harder or to play timing games with their orders and whether firms should use sales and marketing actions to manage their earnings. In 2012, he published an article in Harvard Business Review titled “Motivating Salespeople: What Really Works” that won Darden’s Wachovia Award for Research Excellence.

Paul J. Simko
Associate Professor of Business Administration
Paul is an authority on capital markets, financial accounting, corporate financial reporting and disclosure, and enterprise risk management. His research examines issues related to financial accounting information. He is particularly interested in topics related to how alternative accounting treatments affect the decisions of investors and financial analysts and how investors assess firms’ earnings quality. His current research examines the incentives and consequences of earnings management and valuation issues pertaining to earnings volatility and growth.

Gregory B. Fairchild
Isidore Horween Research Associate Professor of Business Administration | Associate Dean for Washington, D.C. Area Initiatives | Academic Director of Public Policy and Entrepreneurship
Gregory is an expert in business strategy, business ethics, leadership and entrepreneurship. He specializes in underserved, overlooked markets and has taught financial literacy to victims of domestic violence, and has launched a program to teach entrepreneurship and business skills to inmates re-entering society. Gregory was named one of the 10 Best Business School Professors in the World by CNNMoney/Fortune in 2012 and one of the 50 Best Business School Professors by Poets & Quants.

Lynn A. Isabella
Associate Professor of Business Administration
Lynn is an expert in leadership and how people think about change. She is an authority on leading and managing in a global environment and in competency in global leadership. As a teacher, consultant and executive coach, she teaches individuals and companies to develop talent and organizational effectiveness. Her research focuses on questions of developing personal leadership expertise, leading change as a middle manager and on the events that shape individual careers and propel organizational change.

Jane Cahill
Senior Consultant for Executive Education and Lifelong Learning
Jane is an authority on business development, sales management, marketing strategy and implementation. She currently expands access to educational programming on change management, design thinking, digital transformation and strategic data analytics. An expert at promoting bold advancements, she developed the sales and marketing strategy for a global company that introduced cutting-edge technology to the North American marketplace and, as an international director of sales, helped identify key areas of growth for DNA-based precision medicine.
