Non-academic matters include those matters which do not relate to student progress, training and assessment, course content or awards in a course and include grievances in relation to personal information that the provider holds in relation to the student. Non-academic grievances tend to arise from events occurring at a provider or from decisions made by a provider.

Natural justice – the rules or principles of natural justice, also known as procedural fairness, have developed to ensure that decision making is fair and reasonable. Put simply, natural justice involves decision-makers informing people of the case against them or their interests, giving them a right to be heard (the ‘hearing’ rule), not having a personal interest in the outcome (the rule against ‘bias’), and acting only on the basis of logically probative evidence (the ‘no evidence’ rule). *Taken from NSW Ombudsman, permission granted to reproduce given on 23rd January 2015.
