Indoor Location Data Drives Frictionless Employee Experiences

Imagine your business could respond to the needs of your employees without manual intervention. From the time they arrive onsite to the end of their day, technology can deliver personalized, frictionless experiences, that eliminate wasted time, improve productivity and foster a desirable workplace where employees want to spend time.

Indoor location data is the linchpin for transforming the employee experience. Imagine:

- + Perfect Ambiance - air conditioning and lighting automatically adjusting to room occupancy.
- + Effortless Productivity - meeting room availability and booking dynamically adjusted based on occupancy and proximity as well as hotelling/hot-desking needs.
- + Eliminated Idle Time - proactive alerts to optimize wait times for on-site services like Cafes.
- + Nutritious and Delicious - perfectly curated menus and conveniently placed coffee stands tailored to suit everyone's needs.

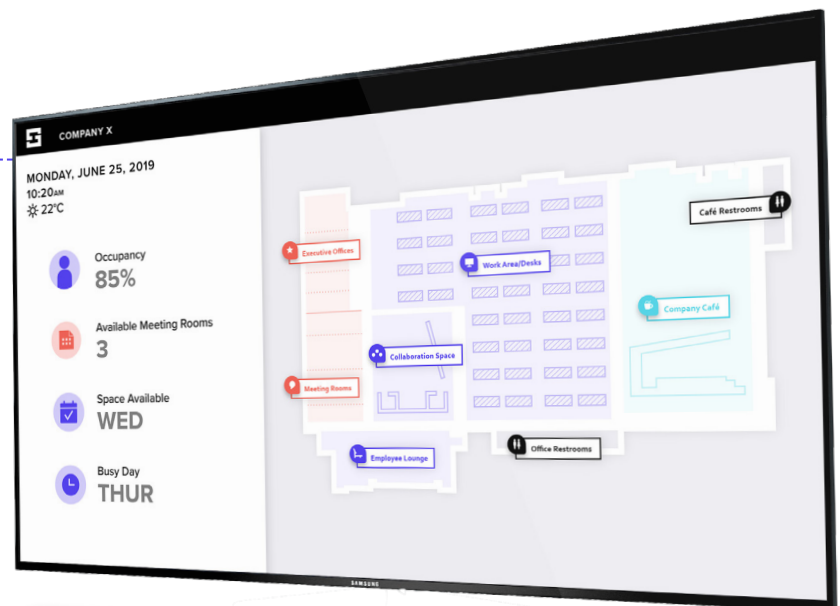

To provide these services digitally, they must all be enabled by indoor location data.

The beauty of each of these employee-focused solutions, is that behind them is the intelligence to improve overall operations and ultimately benefit the bottom line.

- + Create Personalized Services - From locating colleagues across campus, to notifications based on nearby features and services, employees receive mobile notifications using existing company applications.
- + Decrease Utility Costs - Optimizing HVAC and lighting based on occupancy results in cost savings of 18% across typical office environments.
- + Improve Real Estate Utilization - Maximize hot-desking and hotelling opportunities for remote workers while re-allocating underutilized areas for better purposes.
- + Asset Tracking - Track equipment and furniture to improve logistics and facilities team performance.

The Office Utilization dashboard is one example of how InnerSpace clients surface InnerSpace data to engage employees and improve the onsite experience. This dashboard presents occupancy data, highlights available meeting rooms, and encourages commuting employees to arrive on a day when a desk will be available. This dashboard is also available as an online widget for a company website or intranet.
