

water deregulation

Competition between suppliers means increased choice and improved customer service.

ON APRIL 1ST 2017, THE WORLD'S LARGEST COMPETITIVE WATER MARKET OPENED IN ENGLAND. BUSINESS CUSTOMERS CAN NOW NEGOTIATE WATER CONTRACTS, MUCH LIKE GAS AND ELECTRICITY CONTRACTS.

The Scottish water market deregulated in 2008, giving Scottish water companies nine years of experience on their English counterparts. Many businesses in Scotland have changed supplier since then, and it is now estimated that businesses in Scotland could make savings of between 15% and 20% just by switching.

For large businesses with sites nationwide, there is now the opportunity to have multi-site billing for numerous sites across England and Scotland. Furthermore, with partnerships forming between water and energy retailers, customers can now experience multi-utility billing across their gas, electricity and water. We've seen both retailers and brokers offering multi-site and multi-utility billing and is it any wonder when this makes everything significantly easier; saving time and unnecessary hassle for customers.

Power Solutions can help your business with its water needs. We'll take the hassle out of switching supplier by comparing numerous tariffs and finding the best supplier for you. We have relationships with several water suppliers to secure the best possible contracts on your behalf.

Our success in the energy industry has saved customers thousands on their gas and electricity contracts and now we hope to do the same with water.

water deregulation

Customers in Scotland have already received a better deal as a direct result of deregulation.

- ✓ Advice on water saving strategies tailored to your needs
- ✓ More competitive prices with a larger choice of tariffs as customers now have the option to shop around
- ✓ A better standard of customer service in order for providers to retain customers
- ✓ Options for multi-site services, as water providers are not held back by regional restrictions

“ It is reassuring to know that they search the market for the best price for us. Power Solutions are very professional and eager to help. ”
