Population health isn't just a concept – it's a way to run your organization and provide high-quality patient care.

This course is the perfect opportunity to discuss with other physician leaders why an organization would move from a volume-based to a value-based model and how this benefits an organization, its providers, and its patients.

Post-conference webinar: February 7th @ 12 pm EST

ONLINE COURSE

Adapt with ease.

Embracing Change

This online course provides practical strategies to encourage and support adaptability and resilience during times of change. Through real-world examples, you'll have an opportunity to explore potential concerns and solutions while improving your attitude toward change.
