

We care about your eyes

Although your glasses have been created with the utmost care and include a protective coating, they are still vulnerable. It is important to handle and clean them carefully.

Handling tips

- Always use both hands to put on your glasses or to take them off
- When you hold your glasses in your hand, hold them at the bridge, not by the legs
- Keep your glasses in the special hard case provided by your optician
- Do not put your glasses down on the curved side of the lenses
- Be careful with heat. Do not put your glasses down on heat sources such as ovens or hot surfaces and do not leave them in the car when it is extremely hot outside
- Cleaning your glasses with aggressive substances can damage your lenses and frame permanently

Three lenses to suit your lifestyle

1 LifeStyle 3 Indoor

Lenses designed for those who spend most of their time inside. In their daily activities, they focus on objects and tasks no more than an arm's length away. For example, you like to read books and work on the computer. LifeStyle 3 Indoor lenses provide a broader, more comfortable near zone of vision to help you see the details.

2 LifeStyle 3 Urban

Lenses designed for those who are always on the go – both indoors and outside – but also enjoying reading and using mobile devices. LifeStyle 3 Urban lenses have equal focus on all main vision areas.

3 LifeStyle 3 Outdoor

Lenses designed for those who frequently shift their focus between near and far objects. These wearers lead active lifestyles – they are sports or outdoor enthusiasts – or they are always outdoors. LifeStyle 3 Outdoor lenses provide wider and clearer fields of vision when looking ahead and into the distance.

Easy Adaptation

Every time you receive a new pair of glasses, your brain will have to adapt to the new lenses. The average adaptation time for progressive lenses can range from immediate acceptance to several days.

Adaptation time is influenced by several factors such as:

- The prescription for near or far
- An increase in your optical power
- Your experience with previous lenses

Do not compromise on your well being; ask your eyecare professional how to match LifeStyle 3 to your daily activities. The advanced technology behind LifeStyle 3 lenses ensure a shorter adaptation time.
