

How To Use Gadgets

Reprints Desk's Article Galaxy platform features a Gadget Store that works just like an app store. It offers a vast library of task-specific research apps, called Gadgets. Use Gadgets to enhance your research, save time, and accelerate discovery. In the Gadget Store, it's easy to find the Gadgets that meet your needs—simply start browsing and add Gadgets to your dashboard.

The screenshot displays the Gadget Store interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'Gadget Store', 'Sign Up', 'User Log In', and 'More Info'. Below this is a search bar with the text 'SEARCH AND DISCOVER GADGETS FOR YOUR RESEARCH'. The main content area shows 'Welcome to the Gadget Store' and 'Find the Gadgets that meet your research needs! Search by keyword or browse popular categories. Click on any Gadget for a detailed description.' Below this, there are search results for 'All Gadgets'. One gadget is highlighted: '3-D Protein Visualizer'. The description for this gadget reads: 'Collect all of the protein structures mentioned in PubMed papers and explore them with your fingers in a 3D visualizer. Just paste in one or more PubMed ID, or try the automatic search to grab proteins from papers you've discovered in other Gadgets on your dashboard.' There is an 'Add Gadget to Dashboard' button. Below the main gadget, there are 'Similar Gadgets' including 'Quick Links Viewer', 'Trending Articles Finder', and 'Widget Quick Installer'. On the right side, there is a 'Categories' list with items like 'All Time Best', 'New This Week', 'Document Delivery', 'Search Tools', 'Laboratory', 'Biomolecular', 'Productivity', 'Communication', 'News', and 'All Gadgets'. There is also a 'Keywords' section with '#Search', '#Biomolecule', and 'Analysis'. At the bottom right, there is a 'Add a Journal Table of Contents Gadget' section with '19,000+ Journals!' and a text input field for 'Journal Title or Book Title'.
