Who We Serve

Emergency Care & Safety Institute provides training that leads to certifications that meet job-related requirements as defined by regulatory authorities such as OSHA, The Joint Commission, and state offices of EMS, education, and health. Whether online or in the classroom, ECSI courses are delivered throughout a range of industries and markets worldwide, including: child and day care centers, colleges and universities, government agencies, hospitals, private training companies, scouting groups, and many more.

“I haven’t taught one person that didn’t say to some degree or another that they loved the training and the material. And even how much more they liked the ECSI course above others they had taken part in. The customer service is wonderful. I used to maintain all four of my certifications with other organizations, but from now on I will only be offering ECSI through my personal training center.”
