In the Hub, Tony the Bouncer has moved Bob to a secure location. It's up to students to convince Tony to release Bob using the rhetoric they picked up in the last level.

Bob calls the student player on Hype to ask for help because all progress is halted since a firewall was created to stop the aliens from merging their internet with Earth's.

Once students gather missing data and unscramble the Decoder, they head to the alien Virtual World with SAGE to learn more about argumentative structure, idioms, and logical fallacies.

Students use their rhetoric skills to convince the Hubsters that voting to remove the firewall is the right choice during the Said-It Live AMA event.
