Getting Started

OUTLINING YOUR GOALS

To begin, let's identify your goals. For example, do you want to capture more emails? Increase average order value? Decrease cart abandonment?

Identify the metric you are trying to improve will inform the type of promotions and targeting rules to create and give your promotions a purpose from the start.

HELPFUL HINTS

Only one person should work on a promotion at a time. Multiple users in the same promotion can cause edits made to be erased or overwritten.

Continuously save your promotion as you are working.

Set and edit your integration settings by first selecting the email input field.

Design Canvas Tips

- Images must be under 1 MB to upload into the Design Canvas.
- If an element moves or seems to disappear, re-align it to the center (using the realignment options in the upper right corner). It may have been shifted off screen.
- All Close Buttons and Coupon layers should always be ordered as the top layers, so they are clickable and not hidden behind other layers.

Make sure to save your work often!

- Always check that you have designed your Post-Engagement Screen, before publishing.
- Give your layers descriptive names to help you when editing and setting layer orders.
- To see more of the Design Canvas, zoom out in your browser.
- When scheduling any promotions, keep in mind the default timezone is PST.

Targeting Rules

GETTING STARTED

To access the rules, use the icon highlighted on the left from the Promotions section or use the bottommost toolbar within the design canvas.

When first starting, we suggest using the Basic Rules first and transitioning into Advanced Rules once you feel ready. In the next section, we will walk through how to set up both Basic and Advanced Rules. Once a promotion is designed, deciding when to trigger a promotion can be the difference between a highly-effective or highly-annoying pop-up.

Industry restrictions, GDPR, Google best practices, and company preferences must all be taken into account, in addition to your specific user behavior.

Understanding the various combinations and options for rules can make or break a promotion.

Rules based on visitors location

Targeting and Rules: Pro Tips

Contains vs. Equals

When creating URL specific targeting rules, it's important to double check these options. Contains refers to any URL that contains that word. For example, if the rule specifies "Contains > blog," the promotion will show on any page that has 'blog' in the URL. Equals should be used when using a full URL, for example www.example/blog/article-one.

Show on specific page(s) ?

| Any pag     | e                       |

|             |                  |    |                               |  |

And vs. Or

Using these incorrectly can cause your promotions not to fire. In general, 'AND' is used for negative conditions ('does not contain' and 'does not equal) while 'OR' is used for positives ('contains' or 'equals').

GDPR

On the right-hand side of the rules section, under 'Conditions' you will find a drop down for "Geo Location/Language Rules.' In this drop down is a rule entitled 'Country visitor is currently located in.' This rule allows your promotions to comply to GDPR. You can find 'EU (GDPR)' at the very top of the list.

| They | are 🗘 | located in | EU (GDPR) | $ |
|------|-------|------------|-----------|----|
|      |       | /          |           |    |

| The user intends to leave your site via the back button |           |
|---------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| OR (click to change                                     | to "AND") |
| User has been idle on page for exactly                  | seconds   |

Mobile Exit Offers

For mobile promotions, Justuno best practice is to use two rules — 'Exit with Back Button' and 'Idle User.' These two rules ensure your promotion will trigger if the visitor tries to exit your website by either pushing the back button or if they stop interacting with your site over a short time frame (we suggest 15-20 seconds). These rules can also be used for cart abandonment promotions on mobile.

Targeting and Rules: Pro Tips

Setting Multiple Promotion Triggers

Use 'OR' between the rules sets if you want two separate situations to trigger a promotion.

Note: Any rules you want to apply to both conditions must be listed in each set.

Promotion Frequency

Always double check your frequency settings before publishing a promotion. If a promotion is firing over and over again on your site, it may be because it is set to show on every page.

Testing

Once a promotion is live, the next step is to test that the triggers are working properly. Go through the motions to get the promotion to fire and test on as many devices and browsers.

Use Justuno's Testing Method to ensure your cookies are not causing misfires. If you're having issues getting your promotion to fire, you should also try clearing your cache and resetting your Justuno profile.

GETTING STARTED

Justuno's analytics provide easy to read Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) to help optimize promotions. With options to present data by account, promotion, visitor type, or device, Justuno offers full coverage on your website performance. Access to Analytics & Reporting can be found in the top navigation bar.

From here, you can select the time frame and visitor type you'd like to view, as shown below.

LEARNING THE MENU

Analytics Navigation

While the Justuno analytics dashboard provides a large scope of data, there are a few key data points to pay close attention and check regularly to ensure high performing promotions.

The first area to always check is Emails Captured. We suggest capturing emails from both new visitors and returning visitors who did not previously engage.

In addition, cart abandonment is another important area to monitor. In the Cart Abandonment section, you can track carts abandoned without engagements, carts abandoned with engagements and the overall total. Keep in mind this only records by session — if you send out abandoned cart emails, you will have to factor that in separately.

Lastly and potentially the most important, conversions and conversion rate breakdowns are incredibly important to keep a close eye on. Increasing your engaged conversion rate should be a byproduct of all other goals. This section of your Analytics dashboard tracks the success of your promotions and shows conversions based on engagements, no engagements and the overall total. Another area is engagement rates, or the percentage of your visitors who interacted with a promotion. These two statistics can be found at the top of the Analytics Dashboard page, as well as the number of engagements, broken down by type.

Engagement Types

Justuno records three different types of engagements – Views, Clicks, and Submits.

Views – When a visitor leaves a promotion open for more than eight seconds without any other action.

Clicks – When a visitor clicks on a promotion. This could be copying a coupon code or entering an email without completing a submission.

Submit – When a visitor submits a form. Traditionally, this means entering an email, but this can also mean opting into Facebook Messenger or submitting a phone number.

As shown above, restrict the promotion from showing on any thank you pages, as well as cart or checkout pages. In addition, set the promotion to stop showing after a certain number of times and add a delay so visitors can see the site before immediately being served a pop-up.

MOBILE WELCOME OFFERS

For mobile offers, the rules are similar, however, additional rules are required to ensure your promotions are following Google best practices and not negatively impacting your SEO.

For example, use the 'After _ Pages' rule to be sure the promotion fires after at least one page. The other rules will mimic the desktop rules.

KEEP IN MIND

Welcome promotion rules will vary based on your website and visitor strategy. Try starting with a traditional email capture for new visitors and for visitors who don't engage, follow up with a more engaging Spin-to-Win promotion when they return.

EXIT OFFERS

Exit offers are a great way to quickly decrease your bounce rate. While the setup is simple, the most important part is to make sure the correct exclusions are set.

For example, exit offers should not fire on a thank you page (or cart or checkout pages if a cart abandonment promotion is already running).

Since there is no way to track a visitor's intent to leave on mobile, we suggest setting rules based on visitors exiting via the back button and/or if the visitor is idle for a certain amount of time. We also suggest setting a page view minimum for exit offers with discounts to prevent discount codes showing to visitors who might still bounce.

A/B Testing

THE ESSENTIALS

Testing your promotions is key when running successful onsite marketing. Changing copy, imagery, or colors and testing against controls lets you know if you are on the right path.

Getting Started

Select the blue button labeled "+ New A/B Test" on the right-hand side. From here, you can select to test two promotions (a control and a variant) or multiple promotions. Your promotions will follow the rules of Promotion A, or the Base.

Create New A/B Test

Please note: targeting rules set for the Base promotion will be applied to all variants. We do not support the ability to test different audiences against each other.

KEEP IN MIND

A/B Tests should test small changes. For example, adding a microengagement (into screen), slight changes in copy, small color changes, or different images. The more similar the changes, the easier it is to hone in on the perfect promotion for your audience.

Interpreting the Results

We suggest running your A/B tests for at least thirty days and at least 10,000 sessions. With this much data, most A/B tests will have a clearly defined winner by the end. How a promotion 'wins' should be tied to directly to your goals and may vary between promotions. Below is what you will see when you first open the report for your A/B test.

The table above shows an overview of the entire test. Be sure the date range at the top of the page on the right-hand side is set appropriately.

Further down the page is more information like total sessions, engagements, conversions, and revenue, along with pie graphs comparing promotions performance.
