

Having an understanding of today's patients and the steps they take as they navigate the selection of a caregiver, diagnosis and treatment will be crucial in order to provide a positive patient experience.

Acting now as a "buyer," the patient is more empowered than ever before – gathering information and carefully weighing the options before ever setting foot in a doctor's office. This change in the patient conscious, combined with increasing pressure from value-based care to improve patient outcomes and limit readmissions, will play an important role in any patient's journey.
