Laudato Si’—a culture of care
by Bishop Gary Gordon

A number of years ago I was invited to the Richard Mallory Longhouse in Chilliwack for a naming ceremony and received the name Xyolhmetoxw, which means ‘taking care of the people’ in Halq’eméylem, the language of the Stó:lo Nation. The word care is very special to me; it is linked to the Old English word caru, which means, “to feel concern, interest, sorrow that calls to action.”

Father Francis’ new Encyclical, Laudato Si’, is subtitled Care for our Common Home. In this wonderfully written Encyclical, which is now added to the body of the Church’s social teaching, Pope Francis brilliantly reveals the indissoluble union between caring for people, especially the poor, and caring for the earth. The two always go together.

Today, however, we have to realize that a true ecological approach always becomes a social approach; it must integrate questions of justice in debates on the environment, so as to hear both the cry of the earth and the cry of the poor. (LS, 49)

It is true that previous popes, especially Saint John Paul II and Benedict XVI, as well as many national and regional bishops’ conferences, shared teachings on caring for the environment. Pope Francis highlights and incorporates these, while bringing a new sense of urgency, focus and integration to this issue. Throughout the Encyclical we hear the challenge of Pope Francis calling us to greater communion with God, neighbour and nature. We are reminded of our profound interdependence with all creation as echoed by St. Francis’ Canticle of Creatures praising the Lord for “your kinship with Brother Sun, Sister Earth and all God has made. The reality that this familial kinship has been ruptured and broken by a distorted, fallen view of the human person and abusive technological power, highlights the need for deeper dialogue with each other, broader conversion and daily actions so that “nothing in this world is indifferent to us.”

We live in one of the most alluring and splendid environments in the world; the gospel of creation is clearly proclaimed. I am hoping that our natural appreciation for God’s beauty will make us aware that this exercise of democracy is an important aspect of the common good. As we approach this Election Day, we need to be aware that this exercise of democracy is one of the highest forms of charity since it seeks the common good.

As we approach this Election Day, we need to be aware that this exercise of democracy is an important aspect of the Christian Life—the encounter between the Gospel and our culture.

We all have a duty and a responsibility to elect representatives who will sincerely work for the common good. Our democracy cannot be productive and sound without our participation in the democratic process. The Church recognizes that democracy is the best expression of a full participation of its citizens in the public arena, but it rightly reminds us that the true common good of society can only be served if it is based on the correct understanding of the human person.

We live in a fast-changing and complex society that contains much that is good in the advancement of the quality of life through helpful technologies, a sense of tolerance and respect towards others and a genuine care for those who suffer both in Canada and abroad. However, there are signs of increasing attacks on the principle of the dignity of human life. In Canada, we are very much aware that our major political parties do not have a platform in support of human life and that it appears extremely difficult, at present, to overturn the situation regarding respect for human life. It is important then to understand clearly where the candidates stand on such issues. The Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops has provided some examples of the application of Catholic moral and social teaching and how these may be used to analyze and evaluate public policies and programs. Together we ask “What do the political parties say about these issues? What positions are the candidates taking?”

In Pope Francis’ recent Encyclical Laudato Si’, his compelling statements clearly outline our collective responsibility “to care for our common home.” He states, “Today in view of the common good, there is urgent need for politics and economics to enter into a frank dialogue in the service of life, especially human life.” In April of this year the Pope also commented, “The Church is … not a political party, but Catholics must get involved and ‘embroiled’ in politics because it is one of the highest forms of charity since it seeks the common good.”

As we approach this Election Day, we need to be aware that this exercise of democracy is an important aspect of the Christian Life—the encounter between the Gospel and our culture.

The Gospel and our culture
Pastoral Letter by Bishop Gary Gordon

In a few weeks, Canadians will be called upon to exercise their democratic right and responsibility to vote in Canada’s Federal Election on Monday, October 19, 2015. As we approach this Election Day, we need to be aware that this exercise of democracy is an important aspect of the Christian Life—the encounter between the Gospel and our culture.

We all have a duty and a responsibility to elect representatives who will sincerely work for the common good. Our democracy cannot be productive and sound without our participation in the democratic process. The Church recognizes that democracy is the best expression of a full participation of its citizens in the public arena, but it rightly reminds us that the true common good of society can only be served if it is based on the correct understanding of the human person.

We live in a fast-changing and complex society that contains much that is good in the advancement of the quality of life through helpful technologies, a sense of tolerance and respect towards others and a genuine care for those who suffer both in Canada and abroad. However, there are signs of increasing attacks on the principle of the dignity of human life. In Canada, we are very much aware that our major political parties do not have a platform in support of human life and that it appears extremely difficult, at present, to overturn the situation regarding respect for human life. It is important then to understand clearly where the candidates stand on such issues. The Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops has provided some examples of the application of Catholic moral and social teaching and how these may be used to analyze and evaluate public policies and programs. Together we ask “What do the political parties say about these issues? What positions are the candidates taking?”

In Pope Francis’ recent Encyclical Laudato Si’, his compelling statements clearly outline our collective responsibility “to care for our common home.” He states, “Today in view of the common good, there is urgent need for politics and economics to enter into a frank dialogue in the service of life, especially human life.” In April of this year the Pope also commented, “The Church is … not a political party, but Catholics must get involved and ‘embroiled’ in politics because it is one of the highest forms of charity since it seeks the common good.”

As we approach this Election Day, we need to be aware that this exercise of democracy is an important aspect of the Christian Life—the encounter between the Gospel and our culture.
FINANCIAL OVERVIEW

Diocesan Pastoral Centre Operating Revenue 2014

Diocesan Pastoral Centre Operating Expenses 2014

Ministry and Programs 2014

Diocese of Victoria National Collections

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>2014</th>
<th>2013</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops</td>
<td>$16,621</td>
<td>$15,659</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Needs of the Church in Canada</td>
<td>$17,886</td>
<td>$16,345</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pope’s Pastoral Works</td>
<td>$18,614</td>
<td>$14,725</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total National Collections</td>
<td>$765,114</td>
<td>$885,184</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
I am pleased to present the 2014 Annual Financial Report for the Diocese of Victoria, Pastoral Centre. During 2014 there were many changes for the Diocese of Victoria, the most exciting being the appointment of Most Reverend Gary Gordon as the 17th Bishop of Victoria on August 28, 2014. Other significant changes included hiring Rev Pulyk as Superintendent for Island Catholic Schools, reopening the expanded and seismically renovated St. Joseph's Elementary School in Victoria, and the consolidation of Island Catholic Schools Central office services within the Diocese of Victoria Pastoral Centre.

The Diocese of Victoria Pastoral Centre exists to serve others and we keep focused on this primary mission. The Chancery Office, Marriage Tribunal, Religious Education and Youth, and Finance and Administration Office exists to support and assist parishes, schools, programs, parishioners and groups in living out the Gospel Message.

The Diocese of Victoria was busy during the year providing support through our established offices with youth retreats, family camp, vocations, hospital ministry, First Nations and parish outreach and clergy support. In addition we were also pleased to host the Annual Assembly of Western Catholic Bishops in February and the Canadian Catholic Financial Administrators Conference in May of 2014. We strive to provide cost-effective centralized services and policies on governance and structure for sound decision-making. The Bishop appoints a Diocesan Finance Committee that has oversight on all temporal matters which works to ensure prudent decision-making using extensive combined knowledge, expertise and background of its members. Policies and procedures are in place to abide with Canon and civil law. The Diocesan Finance Committee advises and/or approves major financial transactions, financial policies, administration, legal, insurance, investments and property matters, and has policies and procedures in place to ensure we conform with Canon and civil law.

The Financial Overview provides a summary of the activities of the Diocese of Victoria for the year ended December 31, 2014, and does not include parishes, schools, or other affiliated Catholic organizations. The Financial Statements of the Diocesan Pastoral Centre are audited annually by the external firm of KPMG. The Audited Financial Statements are reviewed by the Diocesan Audit Committee and the Diocesan Finance Committee, and are available for review upon request.

Members of the Diocesan Finance Committee

- Bishop Gary Gordon
- John Anderson, Chair
- Fr. Marinaldo Batista, Clergy Member at Large
- Cynthia Bouchard, Chancellor
- Una Guile, Member at Large
- Felicity Hanington, Member at Large
- Fr. John Laszczyn, Vicar General
- Leah MacKenzie, Chief Financial Officer
- Mike Mills, Member at Large
- Art Paulo, Member at Large
- Diane Savard, Member at Large

On behalf of Bishop Gary Gordon and members of the Diocesan Finance Committee, I thank you for your continued support through your weekly parish collections, Journey of Hearts and Hands Appeal, direct donations for local and international charities, and for your prayers for the many pastoral and administrative works of the Diocese.

---

Diocese of Victoria – Together in Faith

- 323 Funerals
- 1,710 students in 6 Catholic schools
- 10,272 registered families
- 50 priests & 3 seminarians
- 16,614 Sacrament of Reconciliation
- 1,582 Sacrament of the Sick
- 36,174 kilometres travelled to provide Sacraments to remote locations
- 336 Baptisms
- 156 First Communions
- 143 Confirmations
- 64 Marriages
- 79 trained catechists teaching 1,600+ children in parish religious education programs
- 41 parishes, missions and Catholic places of worship
- 16,614 Sacrament of Reconciliation
- 1,582 Sacrament of the Sick
- 36,174 kilometres travelled to provide Sacraments to remote locations
- 392 volunteers trained in the Responsible Ministry program

---

By Leah MacKenzie, CGA, CPA, Chief Financial Officer
Calendar of events

October

2 Our Lady of the Rosary, Victoria: The Victoria Diocesan CWL Fall Interim meeting will be held at Our Lady of the Rosary, 798 Goldstream Avenue, Langford, starting with the executive meeting at 9am, followed by the general meeting at 10am. Guest speaker will be environmentalist Phil Jennings, who will speak on Laudato Si’, Pope Francis’ encyclical letter on Care for the Common Home.

3 St. Patrick’s: Victoria’s CWL Fall Good Used Clothing Sale. Bazaar will be held Saturday, Oct 3. Times for both events 9:30am – 2pm. Proceeds support our school, local charities and missions abroad. There is ample parking and the building is wheelchair accessible.

4 Holy Families Group, Our Lady of the Rosary, Victoria: Annual Bazaar from 9am – 2pm in the Church Hall, 4040 Neilthorpe St. All proceeds to charity. For more information email sacredheartchurch@shaw.ca or phone (250) 479-1611.

7 Sacred Heart Parish, Victoria: Annual Bazaar from 9am – 2pm in the Church Hall, 4040 Neilthorpe St. All proceeds to charity. For more information email sacredheartchurch@shaw.ca or phone (250) 479-1611.

10 Our Lady of the Rosary, Victoria: Family Potluck picnic at the Knights of Columbus Farm at 4537 Rocky Point Road. We begin with Mass at 11am, picnic to follow. Special thanks to our Knights of Columbus for the delicious burgers and hot dogs. There will be a lot of fun! Kites are waiting!

23 St. Joseph the Worker, Victoria: St. Joseph the Worker Parish’s Social Eco-justice Committee will be offering 4 sessions starting Sept 23, 7-9pm, on ‘Honouring God’s Creation’. These sessions are presented as the Pope’s encyclical letter on the environment is recently published. Please see the attached for more information. For registration call the parish office 250-479-7413 or email sjtwoffice@shaw.ca.

23 St. Joseph the Worker, Victoria: Parish Children’s Religious Education Start-Up—Children’s Liturgy and Wilson for “Our Catechism journey” for ages 4 through Grade 6 will start up in September. Registration for Programs for Grade 1, Sacramental Prep Year 1 and 2, Year 3 and 4 will be held after 11am Masses on September 27, Sunday 13, 20 and 27. Classes will begin on Sunday, October 18th.

24 Diocesan Messenger – September 2015

Pastoral itinerary

September

5 Victoria: 50th Anniversary Mass and Celebration, Sacred Heart Parish (5pm)

6 Victoria: Mass and Festival, Our Lady of Fatima Parish (10:30am)

13-18 Cornwall, Ontario: CCCB Plenary Meetings

19-21 Toronto: Serra Council Meetings

22 Courtenay: ‘The Spirituality of the Collection Basket’ with Fr. Darrin Gurr, Christ the King Parish (7pm)

23 Nanaimo: ‘The Spirituality of the Collection Basket’ with Fr. Darrin Gurr, St. Peter’s Parish (7pm)

24 Victoria: ‘The Spirituality of the Collection Basket’ with Fr. Darrin Gurr, St. Joseph the Worker Parish (7pm)

27 Duncan: Installation Mass for Fr. Luyen Dau, St. Edward’s Parish (10am)

October

1-3 Edmonton: Restorative Justice Conference, St. Thomas Moore College/University of Saskatchewan

2 St. Joseph the Worker, Victoria: ‘Beloved’ Marriage Enrichment Program: A simple way to enrich your marriage and experience the deeper meaning behind the commitment of “I do” and the Sacrament of marriage. ‘Beloved’ is a DVD video series (12 sessions) presented by the Augustine Institute and offers perspectives on issues in marriage pertaining to conflict resolution, physical and spiritual intimacy, forgiveness, communication, healing and prayer. Part 1 (6 sessions) will be presented on Monday evenings (7 – 9 pm) from Oct. 26 – Nov. 30, Part 2 (6 sessions) will follow in the new year. Workbook cost is $30/person. For more information, please contact Michael Watkins via email: michael.watkins78@gmail.com or call (250) 858-1731.

November

3-4 RetreatWise Retreat: To be held at Honeymoon Bay Retreat on Vancouver Island, RetreatWise is for all married couples wanting to heal their marriages, even those contemplating separation, who are already separated, even divorced couples. RetreatWise deals with tough problems like infertility, years of emotional distance or seemingly irreconcilable differences. Couples who come to RetreatWise often feel hopeful or desperate, but leave with a renewed sense of hope, intimacy and trust. Register online at www.retreutowanacouver.com/events.html or Fr. Dean Henderson (catholic@lucia.cfc) for more information.

7 Sacred Heart Parish, Victoria: Annual Bazaar from 9am – 2pm in the Church Hall, 4040 Neilthorpe St. All proceeds to charity. For more information email sacredheartchurch@shaw.ca or phone (250) 479-1611.

Food to have your event included in the Diocesan Calendar of Events on the website, please email the details to editor@rcdvictoria.org

The Diocesan Messenger

A Publication of the Diocese of Victoria 1 – 4044 Néliehue Street, Victoria, BC, Canada V8X 2A1 www.rcdvictoria.org

Circulation 6,600 2015 Publication Dates February, April, June, September, November & December

Articles submitted for consideration should be received by the 5th of the month preceding publication. Submissions should be no more than 400 words in length, and those chosen for publication may be edited for content or length. Submissions and comments should be sent to: editor@rcdvictoria.org

Editorial Board
Bishop Gary Gordon
Connie Durwood
Cynthia Bouchard-Watkins
Leah MacKenzie
James O'Reilly

Contributors
Allen Jean, Contributor
David Baunstra, Proofreader
Tad Kozoch, The Campus Missions
Anela Nicholson, Connections
Gordon Reilly, Proofreader
Knights of Columbus, Distric
Looking back with gratitude

by Sue Manchester, Volunteer

On August 5, 2015, the St. Ann’s Children and Youth Ministry gathered at Transfer Beach in Ladysmith for a relaxing day by the ocean in celebration of their second anniversary since being organized on May 17, 2013. The event was attended by 31 people in all, including children, youth ministry volunteers, parents, Sisters Elisa and Vinda, and Fr. Joe. As we all stood to pray before lunch, I couldn’t help but reflect on how much we had grown in the last couple of years, and on what an enjoyable journey it has been.

Our first meetings were held outside, under tents, on Thursdays after school. Though quiet and shy, the children eagerly sat to share a snack with us, and to hear introductory teachings about the Catholic faith, the Hul’qumi’num language, and stories and wisdom shared by the Elders. Arts and crafts were enjoyed by all including the youngest member at three years old! “What are you drawing?” I asked him looking at his page of carefully composed gold dashes. “God,” he replied, matter-of-factly. It was an auspicious beginning, I thought.

Our group grew quickly in that year with ten children being baptized in the same field by then-Bishop Richard Gagnon, now Archbishop of Winnipeg. Months later, others have received their First Holy Communion. The Children and Youth Ministry now sponsors a Mass each month where these once-shy children do not hesitate to take the microphone to do readings, psalms and prayers! Field trips are great confidence boosters too, as well as being a lot of fun. At Family Drum nights for example, we gather together for a meal. Afterwards, the drummers sing traditional songs to the rhythm of their drums, and the children enter the circle to learn the traditional dances. Elders will stand to tell a story, or perhaps share a teaching. Hul’qumi’num words and expressions are heard throughout, and in the closing prayer. Enriching experiences such as these are truly delightful for us all!

We thank the volunteers, the Cowichan Tribes Band office, our generous benefactors, and the Diocese of Victoria for their never-ending support.

A ‘wheely’ amazing gift

by Peter Daniels

A new wheelchair for Ms. Amber Rainshadow of St. Joseph the Worker parish in Victoria, obtained by the Knights of Columbus Council 13356 through the BC and Yukon State Council’s long-standing support for the Canadian Wheelchair Foundation, was presented on Sunday, July 5, 2015.

The presentation was done prior to the final blessing at the 6pm Sunday Mass, together with our new chaplain, pastor Fr. Alfredo Monacelli, Grand Knight Brother Andy Kyfiuk and Past Grand Knight Peter Daniels.

Ms. Rainshadow was most thankful for the chair and mentioned that she looks forward to using it for rhythmic gymnastics, in which she plans to participate in the fall. The chair colours will even match the team uniforms!

Amber Rainshadow with (L to R) Fr. Alfredo Monacelli, Past Grand Knight Brother Andy Kyfiuk
Photo credit Denise Kyfiuk
Maureen Walkden has volunteered at the Social Concern Office (SCO) in Victoria for 25 years and has seen many changes during this time. She remembers the milk and diaper programs. Milk was delivered to the door by the local dairy and distributed to the needy. The diaper service involved a Victoria company which would provide cloth diapers and the SCO would make them available to families at no cost. Home visitors picked up the rinsed diapers and returned them to the company to be washed and re-used. This was a great service to low income families who struggled with the cost of diapers, but it became very labor intensive to manage. Eventually it was stopped. One of the main reasons for this was that the diapers were not always returned, and the Society had to pay the company for any missing item. Today the SCO keeps disposable diapers to give out when needed, but it is too expensive to give them to every family with small children. Bravo to the SCO for trying various methods of meeting this need.

"You get to know the regulars—sometimes I would apologize for not having much to give them and they would say, ‘It’s OK—God gives me what I need.’”

Maureen remembers Alex Vanbork, who was the SCO manager when she started volunteering, and the old building that housed the SCO at that time. Her job was to maintain a memory map that showed the neighborhoods of the Greater Victoria area and then send home visits to the Conference. This was the time before families came to pick up their food bags. Maureen remembers the old monthly voucher system. She also helped look after the small garden that was attached to the old building. As a member of St. Patrick’s Conference, Maureen used to do home visits with her husband Tom. Tom joined the Conference so that he could participate in home visits and made a great contribution until he passed away. When she thinks back to doing home visits, Maureen remembers heartwarming occasions such as the time they visited an elderly woman who was looking after a child with disabilities. This lady was so glad to have the chance to talk and offered them a cup of tea so that they could have a good visit. Maureen also remembers difficult visits to Dallas Place where families tried to make a home in situations of real poverty and squalor. When asked why she belongs to Saint Vincent de Paul Society Maureen replying, “The heart of it all is being able to help families and children.” Maureen still volunteers at the Social Concern Office in her calm, warm, humorous manner, and Victoria is a better place because of her contribution.

Phyllis Cameron joined St. Andrew’s Conference in 1994 and feels nostalgic for simpler times with a strong sense of community and fewer rules and regulations, and less technology. However, Phyllis has learned to change with the times and continues to be an essential presence both in St. Andrew’s Conference and the Social Concern Office where she volunteers. Before the food bank, Phyllis did many home visits and she smiled as she remembered getting stuck in the elevator at View Towers and visiting with Diane Pearson, who was a member of the Conference at that time. One time they visited a man who had a dog at home with him, which growled and barked ominously throughout the visit. Diane was petrified of dogs and was very relieved to escape unharmed. Another time Phyllis and Diane visited a home across from the police station and parked in a spot in front of the building. When they came out, the car had been towed due to them misreading the parking times. Phyllis not only had to pay for the tow and to get her car out, but she also got a ticket! This is a clear example of the aphorism, “No good deed will go unpunished.”

Another program that Phyllis has taken the lead on is the Christmas Bureau program that she took over from Pat Mochrie. Beginning in October, her team would get ready for the December rush. They gave out vouchers for a turkey dinner, and families could pick from a toy room that had been stocked by donations. In recent years the Christmas program became more complex with new partners; now the focus is changing again, putting the emphasis on serving seniors. Meanwhile Phyllis continues to volunteer at the front desk at the Social Concern Office. She loves the simplicity of helping one person at a time. While she understands the importance of a ‘hand up’ provided through programs and advocacy, she feels the priority is still the ‘hand out’—giving emergency food and clothing to the most vulnerable members of society. This is the heart of her service—helping those whose circumstances keep them in dire need. She strives to make no judgments about those who come for help because the story behind each person is not known. Some people are living on the street; some have housing but are on social assistance and cannot afford to buy food; some are embarrassed they have to ask for help; many have donated to the Society when times were better. Phyllis says she has learned so much from those she serves—it is not just about giving but also receiving. The final words of her story come from Phyllis herself: “One day a ‘regular’ came in asking about her friend. I was upset about the friend’s situation and felt judgmental towards them, but instead of getting frustrated this person said, ‘Phyllis you have to look at him through God’s glasses, because He is looking through rose-coloured glass when He sees us.’ It really touched and humbled me at the same time. You get to know the regulars—sometimes I would apologize for not having much to give them and they would say, ‘It’s OK—God gives me what I need.’”

St. Joseph’s Hospital chapel blessing and dedication

by Jane Murphy, President & CEO, St. Joseph’s General Hospital

Most Reverend Gary Gordon, Bishop of Victoria, presided at a blessing and dedication service in Comox on July 13, officially opening the new St. Joseph’s Hospital chapel for church services.

The chapel was filled to capacity for the service with members of the community, clergy from different churches of the Comox Valley, residents and families of The Views residential care facility, St. Joseph’s staff and special invited guests.

The former St. Joseph’s chapel was decommissioned in its previous location in October 2014 as a part of the organization’s space planning initiative, enabling renovation of the vacated space and the relocation of the administration offices to free up clinical space in the hospital’s acute care building.

The new chapel is a combination of the new and the old. The space is completely redone and expanded, many of the artifacts were removed from the old chapel and have been carefully incorporated into the new space.

As you approach the chapel doors, you cannot help but appreciate the beautiful stained glass windows that adorn the east wall of the chapel. All of the hand carved woodwork—the wood paneling, altars and kneelers—were crafted by Frank Henderson in 1962. The holy water repository, part of the old chapel, was reinstated. The Stations of the Cross, located on the west wall, were part of the original chapel when it opened in 1938.

The chapel is a quiet, restful place of worship and reflection where patients, residents, family and staff can experience God’s presence and feel spiritually renewed. The chapel speaks to the importance of faith and St. Joseph’s holistic approach to care, recognizing the importance of spirituality in the healing process.

Mass takes place weekly in the chapel, and many church communities in the Comox Valley provide worship services once a month.

Brian Ducedre, Hospital Chaplain, states, “It is my hope that our new chapel will continue to be a place for spiritual renewal for all who wish to use it for prayer, reflection and solitude.”

Page 6

Diocesan Messenger – September 2015
A visit to St. Mary’s

by George Weiss

On Saturday, May 16 and Sunday, May 17, 2015, Bishop Gary was welcomed to St. Mary’s Parish, Ladysmith.

Events included Mass at 10am on Sunday morning for St. Mary’s and St. Joseph’s parishioners; a photo shoot outside the church of Bishop Gary with Fr. Tony Gonsalves (both are in the centre of the picture) and all those present; a pancake breakfast hosted by the KofC and CWL; a gift of two albums illustrating the parish buildings was presented to Bishop Gary.

We are an active parish of about 120 families. Our Catholic Women’s League and Knights of Columbus Councils support the parish, sponsor scholarships to students pursuing post-secondary studies and organize pancake breakfasts at St. Mary's in support of St. Joseph’s Catholic school, among many other activities.

Our pastor and parishioners provide Sunday Holy Communion; musical presentations or Mass in Seniors Homes. The pastor is also a member of the ecumenical assembly known locally as the Ministerial which deals with the administration of the local food bank.

Parishioners have been participating in the annual ecumenical Christmas Carol Service, now in its 39th consecutive year of operation, hosting it every-other year. Our Religious Education program is very successful due to our dedicated catechism team and the children’s constant enthusiasm.

We are grateful to Bishop Gary for his introductory pastoral visit to our parish, and his emergency visit to celebrate Mass on July 12, and we very much appreciate his presence in our parish community during our time of grief.

On Thursday, July 9 the first draft of this article was discussed with Father Tony. On Friday, July 10 Fr. Tony was called to his eternal sleep. May he rest in peace.

50th anniversary of Nostra Aetate

CCCB Press Release

To mark the 50th anniversary of the Second Vatican Council’s Declaration on the Relations of the Church with Non-Christian Religions, Nostra Aetate (promulgated in 1965), the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCCB), through its Episcopal Commission for Christian Unity, Religious Relations with the Jews, and Interfaith Dialogue, has published a new resource entitled: A Church in Dialogue: The Catholic Church and Interreligious Dialogue. This 12-page resource presents the origins of Nostra Aetate and its impact on interreligious dialogue, both in Canada and abroad over the past 50 years, and most notably the renewed relationship between the Catholic Church and the Jewish people. As the document states, “Nostra Aetate offers a vision of hope and a model of respectful, meaningful interaction. It marked a critical beginning point for contemporary interreligious dialogue for Catholics…”

The CCCB resource highlights “how, in our modern world, different religions are increasingly interacting with each other.” This move towards a global community was an essential principle which guided the preparation of the conciliar document. Nostra Aetate “seeks to highlight the things that Christianity shares in common with other religions, and to emphasize their positive, life-giving aspects, which Christians can appreciate and value…” Despite their differences, Nostra Aetate “recognizes that each religion seeks to answer certain basic questions about the cosmos, about the meaning of life, the nature of good and evil, and the goal of our existence.” The new CCCB resource explains that “our grappling with these fundamental issues links all believers, and through our sharing of our respective religious heritages, mutual enrichment is possible and, indeed, desirable”.

In Canada, the fruit of Nostra Aetate can be seen concretely in the many interreligious networks, forums and groups that have taken root in part because of the vision of the conciliar declaration. Areas of interfait collaboration exist across our country, addressing issues of poverty, hunger, human trafficking, domestic violence, religious extremism, and peace-making in the Middle East. A number of Canadian institutions and groups now promote interreligious dialogue and friendship year-round. The Catholic Church in Canada contributes leadership and energy to these efforts. Examples include the Canadian Centre for Ecumenism in Montreal, the Christian-Jewish Dialogue of Toronto, the Centre for Jewish-Catholic Muslim Learning at King’s University College in London, Ontario, the Multi-Faith Centre at the University of Toronto, and the Christian Jewish Dialogue of Montreal.

This new CCCB resource is part of a series by the Commission called A Church in Dialogue which includes three other publications. For more information, visit www.cccb.ca.
Sacred Heart hymn contest winning entry

by Ben Pires, Member, 50th Anniversary Committee

In October 2014, a ‘Sacred Heart’ hymn contest was unveiled to get submissions for contemporary ‘Sacred Heart’ hymns, particularly those that will resonate with the youth. This anniversary legacy was undertaken by Rafael Oei, the parish’s musical director, with Ben Pires promoting the contest throughout the Diocese and in the nearly 120 Sacred Heart churches across Canada, including five parish’s musical director, with Ben Pires promoting the contest throughout the Diocese and in the nearly 120 Sacred Heart churches across Canada, including five

The Catholic Foundation of Vancouver Island provided a $1,750 grant for the first prize of $1,000, second prize of $500, and third prize of $250.

Of the 20 entries received, only one was selected: Hymn to the Sacred Heart, composed by Helen Krauch, Music Director at Our Lady Queen of Peace Parish.

Hymn to the Sacred Heart

Words and music by Helen Krauch
Lord Jesus with praise we behold
your heart with a wealth untold.
We ask you, your love to impart,
and to keep us safe in your Sacred Heart.

Hymn to the Sacred Heart

Your temple, holy, for ever endure.
As we receive you, make our temple
as pure as yours. Lord...

50th Anniversary
‘Sacred Heart’ Hymn Contest

Winning Entry

‘Hymn to the Sacred Heart’

Your might, to shelter, your arms to receive your heart to love us, and to offer
a sweet repose. Lord...

Your gracious body, and blood divine
Drawn up towards you, that our wills
may to you incline. Lord...

50th Anniversary
‘Sacred Heart’ Hymn Contest

‘Hymn to the Sacred Heart’

Words and music by Helen Krauch
Lord Jesus with praise we behold
your heart with a wealth untold.
We ask you, your love to impart,
and to keep us safe in your Sacred Heart.

Your temple, holy, for ever endure.
As we receive you, make our temple
as pure as yours. Lord...

Your might, to shelter, your arms to receive
your heart to love us, and to offer
a sweet repose. Lord...

Your gracious body, and blood divine
Drawn up towards you, that our wills
may to you incline. Lord...

With “BAM BAMs” in hand the crowd roared with approval at the great outreach of Catholic Missions in Canada

One Heart, One Voice, One Mission

by Amanda McCormick
Reprinted with permission of the National CWL

The Catholic Women’s League of Canada (CWL) held its 95th Convention in Vancouver from August 16 – 19, 2015, where 900 CWL members, Archbishops, Bishops, and clergy from sea to sea joined together to listen, share and pray together. The theme ‘One Heart, One Voice, One Mission’ was the focus of all presentations and activities. A full review of the convention can be found on the www.cwl.ca website.

One of the highlights of the convention was a presentation by our own Most Rev. Gary Gordon titled ‘The Abundant Heart and Our Mission Call’. Bishop Gordon started his presentation with, “There is something beautiful about this gathering.” Addressing the audience, he enthusiastically proclaimed, “you greet each other with a hug! They say you have to receive twelve hugs to be well each day, and I’ve gotten enough now to last a month!” Speaking to members, he affirmed, “You are one group of people that demonstrate to the rest of the people in Canada what it means to roll up your sleeves. Thank you very much!”

Every place [the Pope] goes, he goes to visit a prison. These people must become the centre of the Church; those whom we do not want to associate with, necessarily. Accompaniment, care and tenderness... take the first letter of each word and it spells ACT.”

“Having a good heart and a strong mind; this is my experience with the CWL.”

Bishop Gordon proclaimed. “League members are ‘people who truly epitomize the stretching out your own arms to embrace the universe that you live in.”

Bishop Gordon’s experience with the League began as a child. His mom was a life member of the League and he happily recalled his memories of her. “The biggest thing my mom experienced in the League,” he said, “was a communion of trusted friends—a communion of trusted sisters that were a great source of strength, which she needed.” As a child, his parents would often take him and his brother to downtown Vancouver’s east side. The area at the time was referred to as ‘skid row’, and he was fearful of seeing the people who were down on their luck. Looking at his audience, he paused and said, “It seemed like my mother and father seemed to know everyone down there!” This is where Bishop Gordon got his idea of ‘mission, service, sacrifice.’ He fondly recalled his mom saying, “Boys, you’ve got to take care of people. We don’t know why they’re down on their luck. All we know is that Jesus told us to take care of people.”

“Isolation is the greatest poverty and indifference,” Bishop Gary said firmly. “This is a big mission,” he continued, “to end isolation in our country, with bold ideas and new resources.” Bishop Gordon spoke of Pope Francis and his recognition of the marginalized and the isolated. “Every place he goes, he goes to visit a prison,” he said. These people, “Must become the centre of the Church; those whom we do not want to associate with, necessarily,” he said. “Accompaniment, care and tenderness,” he began, “take the first letter of each word and it spells ACT.”

In closing, Bishop Gordon spoke of an encounter he had with a homeless man outside of the hotel. He had struck up a conversation with the man and asked him where he was from. The man told him of the 27 years he had spent working on the Douglas Lake Ranch. As a cowboy, the man had an accident and broke three vertebrae, ending his career. When the Bishop asked him what he was doing now, the man replied, “Well, I get $220 a month.” There was a collective gasp in the room as Bishop Gordon continued his story. “How are you going to survive?” The man then replied, “God. God.” After asking the man what he asked God for today, the man stated, “Well, it already came true... I woke up.”

“The margins and the periphery are our mission.” Bishop Gordon encouraged all members of the League to “Go for a walk. Take a trip down to Columbia and Cordova.” League sisters, you have been challenged. Visit those who need visiting...
Journeying with one heart, one mind

The workshop ‘Decolonizing Pastoral Ministry’ held at Rosemary Heights in Vancouver on August 17 – 20, 2015, was an experience of faith-journey, and can be summed up as a continuous formation of the mind, heart and hands in giving life to the Gospel. From what has been seen in the past, brought about by colonization, it evoked various emotions that somehow grabbed the freedom of expression of what was in the heart, seemingly an endless cycle. Nevertheless, this workshop provided new opportunities to integrate the whole experience and embrace the challenges of decolonization towards reliving Jesus’ heart of mission—love.

During the clan sharing, I had the chance to listen to the richness of the aboriginal cultures, religious traditions and practices across Canada. I was faced with the reality that being with the community among First Nations, there is so much to learn day by day and so many times to take action accordingly. We started with an activity that asked us to complete the phrase: Love is … and we concluded the workshop with the same activity. Having known the effects of colonization, I believe that there is always room for change if we allow love to move us, and that decolonization begins in our heart even before we could take the first step forward. But we cannot do this by ourselves alone. As I learned from the Cowichan people, we journey together with mut'amuuq shqwaluwun (one mind and one heart).

Archbishop Millar from Vancouver and Bishop Gary joined in the workshop, and locally we were blessed with priests including Fr. Sean Flynn, Fr. Jose Prakash, Fr. Alfredo Monicelli; there were also eight representatives from St. Ann’s Church, one from Queen of Angels Catholic School, one from Nanaimo and several from the Congregation of Sisters of St. Ann.

Participants discussing decolonization, theology and pastoral ministry

Celebrating Dr. Patricia Cooke

This is with a mixture of sadness and delight we announce that Dr. Patricia Cooke is officially retiring from teaching classes and holding workshops.

During 15 years of stewardship with the gift of teaching, she has inspired hundreds of us to a deeper understanding of the precious gift we have been given in our faith, encouraging us in the mission of the laity.

Over the years, Dr. Cooke has created classes that include:

- Exploring the Catholic Faith
- Early Christians
- Salvations is from the Jews
- The Sunflower
- Judged on love alone (her final class)

We would like to honour Patricia’s extraordinary gift and generous commitment with a retirement celebration on September 20, 2015, after the 11am Mass in the Seghers Hall at St. Andrews’ Cathedral. For more information please contact by email to exploringthecatholicfaith@gmail.com or phone (250) 386-2982.
Building in love

Excerpts from the Valedictory Speech given by Brian Chou, St. Andrew's Regional High School

“An object experiencing a centripetal force has an inward acceleration due to force acting on it from the centre. There is something bigger than we are helping us in our lives and we don't have to worry about the forces that act against us. We will be held in a circle, and we won't have mere points; we will have connections.

Over the past few years we have learned a lot. We've studied history, languages, science, English, math, physical education, music, art and religion. We have gained a lot of skills, knowledge, and wisdom that will be valuable as we go forward in life. One lesson we all learned is Newton's Law of Motion, a particularly apt metaphor for life. The first law of motion states that every object will remain at rest or in uniform motion in a straight line unless acted upon by an external force. If an object is moving, it will continue to move and it will not change direction. And this brings me to one final metaphor. As I said earlier, there will be forces in our lives.

I grew up in Taiwan until the end of grade four and then our family moved to Victoria. This was an important point in my life. I was scared and confused, but also excited and exuberant. At first everything was new, fresh and fun. I remember waking up at five in the morning and my dad took me out to the UVIC campus. We saw deer and rabbits. In Taiwan, you'd have to go to the zoo to do that. Exciting moments like this act as the external forces that push us forward, just like the objects in Newton's law. But as we all know, excitement is temporary. As time passed, my feeling of freshness vanished.

My wish for the graduates of 2015 and all the people in this room is that they keep love at the centre of their lives.

~ Brian Chou, Valedictorian, St. Andrew's Regional High School
A facelift for Queen of Angels school
by Kathy Korman, Principal

Many volunteers, contractors, and workmen have been busy at Queen of Angels Catholic School in Duncan during the summer break. The entire school interior has been painted; the Kindergarten rooms renovated and updated with new sinks, toilets and water fountains. The front façade and a large fir tree in our memorial garden were removed. Even the library hallway had two windows removed and replaced with new walls. Our Science lab received new counter tops and the Middle School courtyard saw the addition of some new picnic tables. We also removed and replaced 30 chalkboards with whiteboards. The entire school has been rewired so that everyone has wireless Internet access. The final touch is a new sign for the front entrance.

These improvements are in addition to our new playground installation last Spring Break. The School Council spearheaded a fundraising project for 5 years to purchase a new $85,000 playground structure. Many parents, teachers, and other volunteers helped with the installation. They also recently built two ‘kick-boxes’, also known as ‘ga-ga boxes’ for the Intermediate playground. ‘Ga-ga’, literally ‘touch-touch’ in Hebrew, is a variant of dodgeball that is played with one ball in a large octagon or hexagon called a ‘ga-ga pit’. The ga-ga pit generally consists of flat walls atop a smooth dirt, turf, or sand surface. The game begins when one player throws the ga-ga ball into the air; while their backs are against the wall, the players shout “ga” on each of the first three bounces: thus the name of the game!

It is with great excitement and much gratitude that our 420 students and a staff of 47 look forward to our 2015-16 school year.

THANK YOU!

The Benedictines of Nanaimo of the House of Bread Monastery extend a warm and grateful thank you to all who have supported our Bethlehem Retreat Centre ministry over the past twenty-eight years. We are deeply grateful to all who have assisted us in offering spiritual and psychological opportunities for growth to the people of Vancouver Island and beyond.

The new owners of the Bethlehem Retreat Centre ministry, the Friends of Bethlehem Retreat Centre Society, welcome your ongoing support as they continue to sponsor programs and spiritual retreats. For information and ways to offer support please visit their website friendsbrc.com

The Benedictines of Nanaimo
House of Bread Monastery
An integral ecology

_by Bishop Gary Gordon_

Ayn avid fisherman, the Holy Father’s Encyclical Laudato Si’, struck a harmonious chord for me. I believe many people of all faith traditions, who reside in God’s garden we call earth, wish to see an integrated ecology; where the balance of all creation and our relationship with that creation as creatures, not masters, is respected. Thus the beauty and life of the earth’s goodness can be shared by all, and can sustain all.

This summer I spent some time in Nootka Sound in the towns and hamlets that dot this historic and beautiful part of our Diocese in the heart of Nuu-chah-nulth traditional territory. At one time, not too long ago, the towns of Zeballos, Tahsis and Gold River were hubs of industrial and human activity with lots of jobs in the forestry, mining and fishing industries, but now the population is tiny and the few people residing year round are mostly unemployed or retired. The churches in Gold River and Tahsis are beautiful; they are used twice a month by small congregations in both towns, when Fr. Jan Grotkowski CSS travels from Campbell River to celebrate Mass and pastor these mission communities.

In many ways I understand Pope Francis’ call for an integral ecology which clearly puts the needs of the poor at the heart of a right-relationship with the earth because it seeks a global strategy that will take care of the vulnerable …

One of the great joys of the summer was hosting Dino and Elaine Bottero from Toronto. They are supporters of Catholic Missions in Canada (CMIC). Each year CMIC supports over 600 projects in 22 dioceses across Canada, including assistance for our seminarians and missions in the Cowichan Valley, and on the north and west coasts. At the annual Taste of Heaven gala held last April in Toronto, the Botteros won the auction prize of visiting the West Coast Missions and doing a little fishing with Bishop Gary. Catholic Missions in Canada are providing the assistance to put new roofs on the Tahsis and Gold River Churches; yes, it really does rain on the West Coast!

Though the human activity in Nootka Sound is minimal compared to days gone by, there is a vibrancy of nature that lures a few fisherman and kayakers; for the few who have stayed and reside here they have “found paradise.”

Pope Francis in Laudato Si’ speaks passionately about taking care of creation and taking care of the people as an integral ecology (LS, 10). In Nootka Sound the fish are plentiful, the forests are reproducing, being cultivated and harvested, in some areas now being harvested a third time. It is unfortunate that the logs are largely not being processed here on the Island. This is an important point for Vancouver Island since the early 1970s. I’ve seen and even had close encounters with almost every living creature, from whales breaching next to my kayak, to eagles and bears fishing the same waters right next to me. In many ways I understand Pope Francis’ call for an integral ecology which clearly puts the needs of the poor at the heart of a right-relationship with the earth, because it seeks a global strategy that will take care of the vulnerable, in urban or rural areas, as a direct means of creating right relationships with all of creation.

On my first visit to St. Patrick’s elementary school in Victoria I took note of a small creek cutting right through the playground, and of course my first question to the principal was, “Are there any fish in the creek?” “Maybe!” was the reply. This fall the children of St. Joseph’s elementary school in Victoria will harvest the potatoes they planted on nearby property that once was held a house. The harvest will be of a potato the children have moved and can see the blooms and even partake in this year’s yield. This is a small thing in the grand scheme of the world, but is a vital component of teaching a sustainable ecology right in our own back yard. It’s perhaps better to grow potatoes than water and mow the lawn!

I know the question running through everyone’s mind as they read this article is, “So how was the fishing, Bishop Gary?” Let’s just say a lot of people are now happily enjoying a salmon BBQ, including our friends at Our Place and Anawim House.

We share these waters, this land …
A call to holiness

By Fr. David Hogman

An essential and universal prerequisite for Christian faith is the call to repentance. In many ways, this Encyclical is a call to conversion. Christ restored all creation in himself and therefore a Christian vision of salvation seeks the good of all from the human person to the smallest creature. Pope Francis’ intent with Laudato Si’ is to provide the Church with an integrated vision of the Christian Faith and its practical implications for every dimension of human life in this world and the next and as such, it represents an authoritative expression of the Church’s Teaching Office.

Throughout Christian history, many sects tried to disassociate Christ from the beauty of creation. Through the witness of Saints Benedict and Francis, the Catholic Church proclaimed that creation was neither divine nor worthless, but God’s gift to humanity. Creation provided humanity with a home and a realm where we would fulfill our divine likeness by mediating God’s care for all creatures.

Since the Industrial Revolution, this balance suffered a new threat. The industrial societies often separated the human from creation, misappropriating humanity’s dominion as domination, having both environmental and human consequences. This separation prompted the beginning of the ‘Social Encyclicals’ with Rerum Novarum (New Things) in 1891. Now in 2015, Laudato Si’ reminds the Church of her role to protect humanity and her home in creation.

Pope Francis’ ecological critiques are grounded in an understanding of humanity made in God’s image. Divorced from a communion with God, the Pope points out that “human beings frequently seem ‘to see no other meaning in their natural environment than what serves for immediate use and consumption’... and that ‘the deterioration of nature is closely connected to the culture which shapes human coexistence’ (5-6).” Any denigration of human value bears fruit in a degradation of creation. Therefore we cannot serve the environment through misanthropic or anthropocentric philosophies. When we rediscover humanity’s value as made in God’s image and likeness, we will simultaneously reject any vision of humanity as a mere consumer or an instrument of power. Inevitably, it is the poor who suffer from a culture fixated on power.

This ethic of power and consumption is the real target of Pope Francis’ Encyclical and it has many subtle applications to waste, pollution, agriculture, economics and the value of human life. Pope Francis’ intent is not to blame any one group, but to view the healing of our relationship with creation as component to our common good.

On the issues of genetically modified foods or climate control, the Pope’s position is subtle. While recognizing that for centuries farmers have conditioned crops to produce higher yields or to be resistant to pests, the speed through which the same results can be produced through artificial methods should be tempered through caution (130-134). Similarly, the Pope notes that the climate is changing and that there is an element in which the human family must take responsibility for these changes. Pope Francis says that we should do what we can to minimize the damage by adapting our lifestyles and protecting our forests that recycle the air we breathe (20 – 26, 53 – 59).

In short, the measure of Christian life is not our ‘standard of living’, but the call to holiness. Everything from abortion, to climate change, water and air pollution carries with it a new call to conversion and a respect for God’s gifts. Christian life is one of those calls, and we will do well to remember that what we do to the least of God’s children we do to Him.

One of the main themes running through the Encyclical is that there is a human meaning to the word ‘ecology’. Several other main themes run through the Encyclical that are addressed from a variety of different perspectives, thus traversing and unifying the text. For example:

- Every creature has value
- New ways of understanding the economy and progress
- Critique of new paradigms and forms of power derived from technology
- Learning for forthright and honest dialogue
- Conviction that everything in the world is connected
- Lifestyle that does not support a ‘throwaway culture’
- Intimate relationship between the poor and the fragility of the planet
- All of us are interconnected
- Leaders, and each of us, have a serious responsibility for international and local policy
New beginnings

Bishop Gary installs Fr. Alfredo Monacelli (R) at St. Joseph The Worker Parish in Victoria. Concelebrating the Mass was a visiting priest from Uganda, Fr. Jino Mwaka (far left). Fr. Alfredo is the 12th pastor since the parish was opened in 1962.

Bishop Gary signs documentation installing Fr. Mel Bayron (L) as pastor of St. Joseph’s, Chemainus and St. Mary’s, Ladysmith. It was previously signed by Betty Martindale as the representative from St. Joseph’s, as well as by Kevin Sheahan, Chair of the Pastoral Parish Council of St. Mary’s.

Fr. Scott Whittemore (R) was installed as pastor of Our Lady of Grace (Ganges, Salt Spring Island), St. Paul’s (Fulford Harbour), St. Theresa’s (Pender Island), St. Joseph’s (Mayne Island) and all southern Gulf Islands.

Fr. Karam Alraban is installed by Bishop Gary, with Mary McClelland as witness, as the eighth pastor of Church of the Ascension in Parksville, which was constructed in 1968.

Inspiration for youth ministry

by Kelly Bourke

In July, a group of Youth Ministry Leaders from around the Diocese of Victoria traveled to Saskatoon for the Summer Seminar in Youth Ministry. This seminar was hosted by the Western Canadian Association of Catholic Youth Ministers (WCACYM) and the Diocese of Saskatoon as part of the Canadian Certificate in Youth Ministry Studies, sponsored by the Redemptorists (The Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer).

The Diocese of Victoria was well represented at the seminar with six students attending the first year of the three-year certificate program in Comprehensive Youth Ministry. With students attending from Victoria, Courtenay, Port Alberni and Nanaimo this year, it is our hope to have representation including other areas of the Diocese at next year’s seminar.

Courses this year included: ‘Principles of Youth Ministry’ and ‘Practices of Youth Ministry.’ These courses are rooted in the work of youth ministry in the mission of the Church. At its core, this model is about involving and engaging young people in the life of the Church through a process of Belonging, Becoming and Transforming. In this vision of Youth Ministry it matters less what event or activity is being offered for young people; what matters more are relationship, response to the needs and engagement in the community. The goals for Youth Ministry are simple: to empower young people to live as disciples of Jesus Christ in our world today; to draw young people to responsible participation in the life, mission and work of the Catholic faith community; and to foster the total personal and spiritual growth of each young person. (Renewing the Vision: A Framework for Catholic Youth Ministry, 1997)

Participants of the seminar learned these basic ideas behind a comprehensive approach to ministry with youth, explored planning and collaboration to be continued within their parish/organization settings, and had the opportunity to network with other youth ministry leaders from across Canada. The seminar instructor, Andrew Bartley, inspired our youth ministry leaders to bring this way of seeing youth ministry back home with them to incorporate it into the youth ministry at their parishes. For more on this model, visit: https://www.cmdnet.org/youth-ministry or http://ccyms.ca/wp/?page_id=35.

Stayed tuned for local presentations on the ways we can build a dynamic and thriving Comprehensive Youth Ministry model in our parishes and for news on next year’s seminar. Be sure to help send someone from your parish!
The summer is always a slow time for campus ministry. It’s in the summer that we turn our eyes to missions. There have been a number of missions that have happened this summer with Catholic Christian Outreach (CCO) as well as the Diocese. Instead of trying to describe the missions to you I thought it would be better if those who went on them described them to you instead.

Samara Carty on the Impact mission in Vancouver
Over the summer I had an amazing opportunity to participate in CCO’s IMPACT mission. IMPACT is a three-and-a-half-month-long mission in which university aged men and women evangelize in the city through parish work, the workplace, and volunteering. This year we were located in Vancouver. With a total of 39 student missionaries, we were split up in teams at ten different parishes in the city. This was the first time I’d ever lived in community and I loved it!

We volunteered at the Salvation Army, helping to make and serve lunches to 90 – 150 people weekly. We also cleaned windows, washed floors and walls, chopped wood, and did yard work. We visited most of the Religion classes at the Catholic high school, where we would share our testimonies and faith, play sports and spend time with the students after school. We attended all Masses on Sunday at the cathedral parish and had weekly faith studies and Adoration outreach events called Nightfever. Fr. Harrison from Victoria was around to help us facilitate Nightfever and Theology on Tap, as well as lead a four-day-mission trip to Dawson City. We saw many grow in their relationship with God and their desire to share their faith.

However, my biggest highlight from the mission was the community. All 15 of us got along really well, as we were connected by the mission and our desire to serve. However, my biggest highlight from the mission was the community. All 15 of us got along really well, as we were connected by the mission and our desire to serve.

Laura Pond in CCO’s mission to the Yukon
I was very blessed to be a part of the Yukon mission. We went into the community to serve in whatever ways we could, always looking for opportunities to share the Gospel.

We volunteered at the Salvation Army, helping to make and serve lunches to 90 – 150 people weekly. We also cleaned windows, washed floors and walls, chopped wood, and did yard work. We visited most of the Religion classes at the Catholic high school, where we would share our testimonies and faith, play sports and spend time with the students after school. We attended all Masses on Sunday at the cathedral parish and had weekly faith studies and Adoration outreach events called Nightfever. Fr. Harrison from Victoria was around to help us facilitate Nightfever and Theology on Tap, as well as lead a four-day-mission trip to Dawson City. We saw many grow in their relationship with God and their desire to share their faith.

However, my biggest highlight from the mission was the community. All 15 of us got along really well, as we were connected by the mission and our desire to serve. At the end of the mission it was hard to say goodbye.

Zak Shi in CCO’s mission to Brazil
The most memorable moments on mission were when we visited families in the Amazon; many communities only see a priest twice a year, which made me realize how fortunate I am that I can receive Sacraments daily. The locals have very few material things, but are very rich in heart and spirit. They always welcomed us despite how little they had. I wondered if they were teaching us about our faith rather than us teaching them. We would share with them the Gospel, sing to them and play with the children. We felt very much loved by the Amazon people.

I learned love requires great effort. When the heat and humidity made me uncomfortable, every act of love and kindness became a conscious effort; love is an action of the will. I also learned what is important in life. I have heard multiple times that heavenly treasure is more important than earthly concerns, but my heart learned this through my experience on mission.

I enjoyed every moment of this mission; it taught me some very valuable lessons, and gave me great friends. I would recommend anyone to make a trip like this if they feel called.

The summer has been busy, full and life changing for many from Victoria. God is doing great things! Next summer, Fr. Dean Henderson and Fr. Paul Szczur SDS will be leading a group to World Youth Day in Krakow, Poland. Make sure you sign up for that soon if you are interested, or if you know someone who might be interested. As for next year! CCO will be leading different missions. Visit www.cco.ca/missions to learn more—don’t miss out!

As we’ve been preparing for the upcoming school year, we’re excited to announce that the Newman house has been resurrected! There will be three young men living in community and praying together at Holy Cross rectory. We’re excited for what this year will bring!

Karl Trautmann, Seminarian for the Diocese of Victoria, on the Ahousat mission
In early August I went to Ahousat on Flores Island with two students from UVic, on behalf of the UVic Catholic Chaplaincy and the Diocese of Victoria. We had originally planned a bible camp, but the youth were on vacation, so we played games with them and hung out in the sun trying to find opportunities to talk about God. It was easy to be with them, and we had fun. However, it proved more challenging to talk about Jesus. We shared our faith with them, and I think we showed that Catholic grownups are pretty cool people.

While we were there, an Elder of the community passed away and the tribe mourned as a community for five days. This transformed our mission from catechesis and evangelization to presence and witness. It was our privilege to show that Catholic grownups are pretty cool people.

The most memorable moments on mission were when we visited families in the Amazon; many communities only see a priest twice a year, which made me realize how fortunate I am that I can receive Sacraments daily. The locals have very few material things, but are very rich in heart and spirit. They always welcomed us despite how little they had. I wondered if they were teaching us about our faith rather than us teaching them. We would share with them the Gospel, sing to them and play with the children. We felt very much loved by the Amazon people.

I learned love requires great effort. When the heat and humidity made me uncomfortable, every act of love and kindness became a conscious effort; love is an action of the will. I also learned what is important in life. I have heard multiple times that heavenly treasure is more important than earthly concerns, but my heart learned this through my experience on mission.

I enjoyed every moment of this mission; it taught me some very valuable lessons, and gave me great friends. I would recommend anyone to make a trip like this if they feel called.

Laura Pond in CCO’s mission to the Yukon
I was very blessed to be a part of the Yukon mission. We went into the community to serve in whatever ways we could, always looking for opportunities to share the Gospel.

We volunteered at the Salvation Army, helping to make and serve lunches to 90 – 150 people weekly. We also cleaned windows, washed floors and walls, chopped wood, and did yard work. We visited most of the Religion classes at the Catholic high school, where we would share our testimonies and faith, play sports and spend time with the students after school. We attended all Masses on Sunday at the cathedral parish and had weekly faith studies and Adoration outreach events called Nightfever. Fr. Harrison from Victoria was around to help us facilitate Nightfever and Theology on Tap, as well as lead a four-day-mission trip to Dawson City. We saw many grow in their relationship with God and their desire to share their faith.

However, my biggest highlight from the mission was the community. All 15 of us got along really well, as we were connected by the mission and our desire to serve. At the end of the mission it was hard to say goodbye.

Samara Carty on the Impact mission in Vancouver
Over the summer I had an amazing opportunity to participate in CCO’s IMPACT mission. IMPACT is a three-and-a-half-month-long mission in which university aged men and women evangelize in the city through parish work, the workplace, and volunteering. This year we were located in Vancouver. With a total of 39 student missionaries, we were split up in teams at ten different parishes in the city. This was the first time I’d ever lived in community and I loved it!

Our weekly schedule was busy. Monday to Friday we would work or volunteer until 5:30pm. In the evenings, we would lead faith studies, have community bonding nights, fellowship nights for young Catholics called Cornerstones, and Adoration events. During the weekends, we would have a training meeting with all 39 IMPACT participants and on Sundays we would attend Mass with our parish teams and help out. We would make announcements about what we were doing on mission, as well as other things such as lectoring, ushering, altar serving, and helping at the parish picnic. My team was comprised of me and four others at Holy Rosary Cathedral.

IMPACT was not just an opportunity to help others draw closer to God but also an opportunity to grow in our personal relationship with Him. During the mission I learned how precious I am as a daughter of God. I was able to grow in confidence. Now I am more sure of who I am and who I want to be.
Out of the Archives

by Theresa Vogel

Thank you to all who submitted responses to the June “Out of the Archives” column. Some local Victoria folk expressed interest in including the picture of the Palmer Road mission that went on to become Sacred Heart Church, saying that it was all too recent to be an archival piece! The stern looking gentleman (pictures right) was Bertram Orth, seventh bishop of the Diocese. In fact, Bishop Orth served as both Bishop and Archbishop during his episcopacy, 1900 to 1908. Bertram Orth was born in 1848 near Cologne, Germany, and ordained in 1872 in Brussels. He followed many of his colleagues from the American jurisdiction of Oregon, and became the Metropolitan over all of British Columbia and Athabasca-Mackenzie. In 1908, the Metropolitan Jurisdiction was moved to Vancouver, and the Diocese of Vancouver Island reverted to an episcopate.

For this issue, and in light of the 50th jubilees celebrations at Sacred Heart Church in Victoria, the “Who Am I?” section is expanding to include a diao of priests associated with that parish community over the years. Your memory is required to tell me who they are and what their unique connection to the parish is!”

By Anela Nicholson

Back to school season is upon us, and it can be a very challenging time of year for many. As college students return to their classes and dorm rooms, it can be hard to stay positive amidst the exchange of sun, sea, and sky for lockers, exams, and textbooks. The excitement of a fresh start and enthusiasm that is present the first few days of school quickly fades, and suddenly we are stuck surviving another year. If we’re honest, some days it might seem like we wouldn’t make it to the end of the year with both our sanity and faith intact.

In his letter to Timothy, St. Paul says, “I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.” (2 Timothy 4:7) So, how exactly do we as high school and university students keep the faith as we embark on another year of education? There are a few simple things you can do, such as change your cell phone lock screen to an inspirational image, take a moment to talk to God as you switch classes, or keep a holy card in your binder, but there’s more than that.

There are a few simple things you can do [to keep your faith in school], such as change your cell phone lock screen to an inspirational image, take a moment to talk to God as you switch classes, or keep a holy card in your binder, but there’s more than that.

The first thing we need to do in order to ensure that we have a faith-filled day is to pray and simply invite God into our daily lives. Part of being a Catholic is inviting God into every part of our lives, not just when we go to Mass on Sundays. He wants to be the most important thing in our lives, but still must wait for our invitation. When we pray, we communicate with God, just as we would with a good friend or close relative. There’s no right or wrong way to pray, and in doing so, we give God the opportunity to walk beside us every step of our day, whether we’re preparing for a hard test, facing the bullies awaiting us, or even realizing we forgot our lunch. Starting the day with prayer gives us the strength to face whatever the world throws at us, and also helps ground us to live every moment for God. We should also make sure to pray during the day and before we go to sleep at night, in order to include God in every moment of our day.

Next, it’s important to make sure that we keep the faith by going to Mass every week. As young adults living in a many times chaotic and stressful world, Mass is an opportunity to come before Christ as we are, with no strings attached, to share in his love. The Eucharist is where we get recharged to go out into the world and serve Christ, and it is also the place where we join the universal Church in celebrating Christ’s sacrifice of love for us. We often look for ways to feel included in things, and when we receive Jesus in the Holy Eucharist we are participating in a worldwide sacrifice that people of all nations, races and languages recognize as the celebration of Christ’s true Body and Blood.

Another way to keep our faith strong is to be among those of the same mind who can encourage and inspire us, while also helping draw closer to God. If your parish offers a youth group or a Bible study, join it! Join with a group of other like-minded young people who are all experiencing the same thing as you, and who can support you as you learn more about the Catholic faith. For those attending university or college, don’t be afraid to join your Catholic Students Association or local Catholic campus groups. University is a time when we start new lives as adults, and so it’s important to make sure that Christ has a prominent role in it.

Finally, don’t ever “take off” your faith. It can be hard to be the only Catholic in the room, the only person saying grace, or the only person battling peer pressure. It can seem harmless to take off your crucifix when you go out with your friends, but this isn’t the case. Although it’s not always the easiest or most comfortable situation, salvation is at stake. We are called to “make disciples of all nations,” and we can’t do that by hiding our identity as Catholics. Don’t be afraid to share Him with the world, however that might be. Don’t conform to the rest of the world; instead, continue living as a good Catholic in all of life’s moments, easy or hard.

We embark on another year of education? There are a few simple things you can do, such as change your cell phone lock screen to an inspirational image, take a moment to talk to God as you switch classes, or keep a holy card in your binder, but there’s more than that.

6:30pm Thursday Oct. 22nd

UNITED STATES OF VICTORIA | DAVID LAM AUDITORIUM
MACLAURIN BUILDING | Admissions by Donation
Parking Lot 6 & 7 (Permits can be purchased with coins or credit cards)
http://venues.usc.ca | Contact: 250-385-6050 or info@usc.ca
Response by Dr. Christophe Potworowski
Professor, Catholic Pacific College
bishopslecture.webs.com

Faith is to believe what you do not see; the reward of this faith is to see what you believe.
~ St. Augustine

Margaret Somerville

BISHOP’S DISTINGUISHED LECTURE 2015

Margaret Somerville

D.C.L., LL.B. (Hons.), A.L.L.B. (Hons.), Order of Australia
UNESCO Aventine Prize for Ethics in Science 2013
Companion in the Order of Australia 2013

Margaret Somerville is a speaker, consultant and researcher on bioethics, law, health policy and bioethics, health care ethics, and medical and mental health law. She has consulted for international organizations such as the Global Health Council, the World Health Organization, the International Council of Nurses, and the United Nations, and has served on the Canadian Law and Health Research Program. Dr. Somerville is a speaker, consultant and researcher on bioethics, law, health policy and bioethics, health care ethics, and medical and mental health law. She has consulted for international organizations such as the Global Health Council, the World Health Organization, the International Council of Nurses, and the United Nations, and has served on the Canadian Law and Health Research Program. Margaret Somerville is the author of The Ethical Canary: Battles about values in the culture wars. She has consulted for international organizations such as the Global Health Council, the World Health Organization, the International Council of Nurses, and the United Nations, and has served on the Canadian Law and Health Research Program.

Margaret Somerville is the author of The Ethical Canary: Battles about values in the culture wars.

Radical Autonomy or the Common Good?

Battles about values in the culture wars.

Moderator: Dr. Christophe Potworowski
Professor, Catholic Pacific College

7:30pm Thursday Oct. 22nd

UNIVERSITY OF VICTORIA | DAVID LAM AUDITORIUM
MACLAURIN BUILDING | Admissions by Donation
Parking Lot 6 & 7 (Permits can be purchased with coins or credit cards)
http://venues.usc.ca | Contact: 250-385-6050 or info@usc.ca
Response by Dr. Christophe Potworowski
Professor, Catholic Pacific College

bishopslecture.webs.com
Prayer for our Sisters and Brothers in the Consecrated Life

Heavenly Father, you call women and men to follow Jesus, in poverty, chastity, and obedience. Help them grow as witnesses of your love and mercy, by embracing the Gospel and journeying with your people.

Fill us with gratitude and joy for the variety of gifts made so abundant through the consecrated life in Canada. Help those on this path of holiness to listen to what the Holy Spirit is saying to the Church and the world today. Give them unwavering hope that they may embrace the future with confidence and boldness.

Let the beauty and holiness of the consecrated life continue to shine forth in our Church. May Mary, endowed with every gift of grace, be for your people the model of love and service for God and neighbour.

Through Christ your Son, Our Lord, Amen.

Approved by the Canadian Conference of Bishops and the Canadian Religious Conference.

Sisters of St. Ann celebrate Jubilarians

By Sr. Patricia Donovan SSA

On May 23, in this special Year of Consecrated Life, The Sisters of St. Ann celebrated the anniversary of Religious Profession of five of our Sisters: Sister Noreen O’Neill and Sister Nora Keane, 75 years; Sister Marina Smith and Sister Patricia Shreenan, 60 years; Sister Dawn Mahara, 25 years.

The festivities began with the Eucharist at Holy Cross Church with Monsignor Michael Lapierre as celebrant. During the Liturgy, each Sister renewed her vows which were received in the name of our Congregational Leader by Sister Patricia Donovan. Sisters, family and friends of the Jubilarians were there to celebrate.

Following Mass, a festive luncheon was held at the University Faculty Club to which the many friends and relatives were invited. At the end of the meal, each Jubilarian was toasted.

It is interesting to note that Sisters Noreen O’Neill, Marina Smith and Patricia Shreenan grew up in Victoria and attended St. Ann’s Academy. Over the span of the past 75 years all of the Jubilarians spent some of their active life ministering on Vancouver Island: Noreen for 12 years, Nora for 39 years (26 of which were at St. Patrick’s School), Marina for 12 years, Patricia for 46 years and Dawn for 20 years.

We are grateful for their years of dedicated service to God’s people and wish for them many blessings as they continue their journey as vowed religious.

Sr. Nora Keane SSA (R) with Sr. Eileen Curteis SSA

Sr. Noreen O’Neill SSA (L) is helped by Sr. Judy Morin SSA

Sr. Patricia Donovan SSA, Provincial Leader; Sr. Marina Smith SSA; Sr. Pat Shreehan SSA and Sr. Dawn Mahara SSA
Faith Matters

by James E. O’Reilly, Office of Religious Education

The quality of being honest and having strong moral principles and The state of being whole and undivided are the first two definitions for integrity in the dictionary. In terms of today’s celebrity and political culture, integrity as a concept may resonate vaguely, if at all. Most people are likely to associate integrity with the Age of Chivalry as a quaint concept both difficult and rare.

Actually the word’s origins go as far back as the Roman Empire during the period of the twelve Caesars. We’ve all seen period films with Roman soldiers striking their chest armour and saluting superiors. During daily review by the unit centurion, each legionnaire would shout the word integritas accompanied by the gesture of striking the breastplate armour with the right fist. ‘Integritas’—the affirmation of ‘material wholeness, completeness and entirety’, along with the telltale resounding ring of the breastplate metal, was verification to the centurion that this legionnaire’s armour was sound—literally ‘undiminished, complete, perfect’. This was also symbolic of the soundness of the standards, character, and morals of the soldier it protected. By contrast, the praetorians (imperial bodyguards) during this period were gaining power and influence while their moral conduct was steadily declining. Their declarative shout was, “Are Caesar!”—signifying allegiance to a man, not to their unit, not to an institution, nor even to a set of principles.

We have met the enemy and he is us. (Pogo)

Integrity is also a core concept found in Pope Francis’ Encyclical, Laudato Si’. Drawing on a topic of great contemporary interest and urgency, the environment, Pope Francis parses out its various aspects from ecological to social, economic and spiritual domains. In citing current maladies and the implications of not responding to the pressing crises which we are facing in each of these areas, he reminds us that that they are all interrelated, and that the fundamental issue is one of human failure.

Integral Ecology

All is not doom and gloom, however, as even in the midst of humanity’s self-destructive, self-centered tendencies and excesses, humanity possesses great God-given creative potential for change. Such change is surely possible through awareness, re-examination, reform, education and action.

“An integral ecology is also made up of simple daily gestures which break with the logic of violence, exploitation and selfishness (LS, 230)”

The ways and means are readily available: the positive application of technologies, honest and forthright inclusive dialogue and debate, the development of globally conscious social, ecological and economic policies that are fair and equitable, along with education that recognizes limitations and honors limits for the benefit of the common good, particularly in the face of our “throw-away” culture. What Pope Francis is calling all humanity to is to live what he terms an “integral ecology.” That is, understanding and living in a manner that takes into account, respects, and honours all aspects of life as gift—the planet, the economy, society, culture, humanity—not only in our time, but for future generations; and not only for nations, but also for each and every one of us.

The unfolding global drama has certain core elements that resonate particularly for the Christian. While increasing in scope and intensity, and engaging an ever larger and diverse cast of characters, it’s basically a familiar script, repeated innumerable times since things first went awry one day in the Garden of Eden. It is a drama played out in the history of nations, of cultures, of families and in each and every one of us. Things dis-integrated then, and things dis-integrate every time our focus shifts, our allegiance shifts, our love shifts from our God to our selves.

“The universe unfolds in God, who fills it completely. Hence, there is a mystical meaning to be found in a leaf, in a mountain trail, in a dewdrop, in a poor person’s face. The ideal is not only to pass from the exterior to the interior to discover the action of God in the soul, but also to discover God in all things.”

~ Laudato Si’, 233

Pope Francis is reminding us that only when our macrocosmic personal inner reality is in order—is right with God—only then can our macrocosmic global reality experience true justice; these two realities are inseparable, and they profoundly impact each other.

Integrals!

We did not need Pope Francis to tell us we are in crisis on the global level, but what Pope Francis has helped us recognize is something that deep down we all knew: the issues are all connected. Pope Francis has also helped us realize all of this is part of a deeper, age-old struggle, a battle that we are all in together:

Finally, be strong in the Lord and in the strength of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we are not contending against flesh and blood, but against the principalities, against the powers, against the world rulers of this present darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places. Therefore take the whole armour of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having girded your loins with truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, and having shod your feet with the equipment of the gospel of peace; above all taking the shield of faith, with which you can quench all the flaming darts of the evil one. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. Pray at all times in the Spirit, with all prayer and supplication. (Ephesians 6:10 – 18a)

In light of Laudato Si’, it is worth noting that Paul indeed “fought the good fight” and that the greatest power on earth in his time, the glorious Roman Empire, along with the greatest military power of the age, the Roman Army, fell to the very forces that Paul in Christ overcame.

Paul struggled, as all the Saints have done through the ages, and as we all do today in this same battle. The effective weapons for this battle are old yet ever new, Put on then, as God’s chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience, bearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other; as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive. And above all these put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony. And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in the one body. And be thankful. (Colossians 3:12 – 15)

So when we consider our world and the seemingly overwhelming battlefield it can often be, we can take heart with St. Paul and all the Saints who know that God has already guaranteed victory.

As we rise and equip ourselves for the battle each day, we must ask ourselves to whom will we pledge our allegiance, our heart—the ‘Caesars’ of waste, excess, power, fame, fortune, dehumanizing technocracy, injustice, inequality, selfishness—they are legion! Or will we give our heart to God who has given us everything to which we are bound as recipients and stewards: the planet, the economy, society, culture, each other, life itself—all of which can be occasions, opportunities, and mediators of God’s grace.

Integrals! ☝

AN ENCYCLICAL MINI-QUIZ

1. The word “encyclical” means:
   a) an authoritative teaching
   b) Papal document
   c) Church pronouncement
   d) circular letter for the community

2. Laudato Si’ means:
   a) Pope Francis’ first Encyclical
   b) True
   c) False circle one

3. This is Pope Francis’ first Encyclical. True or False? circle one

4. Who has been nicknamed the ‘Green Pope’?
   a) Pope John XXIII
   b) Pope John Paul II
   c) Pope Francis
   d) Pope Benedict XVI

5. Pope Francis has addressed this Encyclical to:
   a) bishops and priests
   b) leaders of the world
   c) every person on the planet
   d) the Catholic faithful

6. World Day of Prayer for the Care of Creation has been designated every:
   a) October 4
   b) October 20
   c) September 21
   d) September 24

Answers are located on page 21.
It’s almost as if we can’t get to that chasm without suffering. We certainly can’t think our way there or determine that we are going to get there by our own righteous works. However, once facing that chasm, there is still a choice. We can jump in or we can turn back and look for other options. St. John of the Cross wrote, “God has to work in the soul in secret and in darkness because if we fully know what was happening, and what Mystery, transformation, God and Grace will answer this or that prayer or change this or that situation. It also takes the load of guilt off that we didn’t pray the right way, didn’t fast enough or didn’t have enough faith. At the same time it’s not the same as praying “thy will be done” as a safeguard. It’s more of a realization that we’re facing pure mystery. We need to just stand still and let God’s mystery present itself to us without injecting into that mystery our ‘knowledge’, expectations and demands. Now that’s freedom and peace!” (Quoted with permission)

This woman lost her child to cancer six months ago.

Don’t get the wrong idea. Just because she wrote the above doesn’t mean she is completely over the bone-wrenching grief and agony. It doesn’t mean she will never ask “Why?” again. It just means that she has taken a quantum jump past the destructive but common misconception that she could have controlled the outcome by what she did or how she prayed. Suffering is hard enough without the added anxiety and guilt of feeling that if we’d had more faith or had found the right prayer it might have ended differently or, if we had more trust, we might not be so incapacitated by grief. Saying, “Thy will be done,” while feeling it is wrong to honestly struggle with the agonizing questions of “Where was God? Where is He now? Why this happened?” may actually be unhealthy denial and can lead to even deeper pain and depression. Trying to maintain the image of towering spiritual strength when one is completely unravelled inside is not a Gospel value; it is the ego unable to admit poverty of spirit. The Gospels tell us that poverty of spirit is a state of the Blessed of God and that the Kingdom of God belongs to the poor, the weak, the ones who don’t know the answers and the ones who suffer.

Remembering Fr. Tony Gonsalves

Your prayers are requested for Fr. Tony Gonsalves OSF, who passed away suddenly from a massive heart attack at St. Clare’s Monastery in Duncan on Friday, July 10, 2015, at the age of 75.

“Christ didn’t chase, he jumped—and by that jump we were saved.”

We are a Church of the baptized, sharing and living out our faith commitments, thus making our efforts to contribute to the common good, excluding no one.”

Fr. Tony was born on February 4, 1940, in Karachi, India (now Pakistan) and was received into the Franciscan Order on May 31st, 1961. He made his solemn profession of vows on August 2nd, 1966, and was ordained a priest on January 6th, 1968. Fr. Tony served the Franciscan community in Pakistan in leadership roles as a formator and pastor until he transferred to Canada in 1993 to join the Franciscans of Western Canada.

Fr. Tony served in our Diocese as Pastor of Sacred Heart Parish in Victoria from 2004 – 2007 and Guardian of St. Joseph’s Friary; Administrator of Holy Cross Parish in Victoria from 2011 – 2013; Director of San Damiano Friary in Duncan from 2014 – 2015; and was serving as Administrator of St. Joseph Parish, Chemainus and St. Mary Parish, Ladysmith from 2004 – 2007 and Guardian of St. Joseph’s Friary; Administrator of Holy Cross Parish in Victoria from 2011 – 2013; Director of San Damiano Friary in Duncan from 2014 – 2015; and was serving as Administrator of St. Joseph Parish, Chemainus and St. Mary Parish, Ladysmith from 2014.

Please continue to remember in your prayers the members of the Franciscan Community, and the Poor Clares, as well as the parish communities of Ladysmith and Chemainus where Fr. Tony served until his sudden passing.

In an Easter message Fr. Tony shared with the parishioners of Sacred Heart Parish in 2007, he spoke of the journey from Ash Wednesday to Easter. His closing remarks included these words:

Much more has to be aimed at during our onward journey. Like those on the road to Emmaus, let us tell our stories, our successes and our failures, our frustrations at not being heard, our greater need for honesty and trust among all levels of Church structures. It is never too late to make a start and be accountable. We are a Church of the baptized, sharing and living out our faith commitments, thus making our efforts to contribute to the common good, excluding no one. We have a long way to go, but let this Easter Blessing be ours—to think our way there or to determine that we are going to get there by our own righteous works. However, once facing that chasm, there is still a choice. We can jump in or we can turn back and look for other options. St. John of the Cross wrote, “God has to work in the soul in secret and in darkness because if we fully know what was happening, and what Mystery, transformation, God and Grace will eventually ask of us, we would either take charge or stop the whole process.”

We would rather chase the chimera of safety and power than jump into the chasm of unfathomable mystery. It’s the eternal temptation. However, when you are faced with this temptation, remember:

I received the following in an email:

“I very much liked what you said about the fact that we can’t know God [through the intellect] and that there is a kind of peace in accepting that. I understand that. There really is a peace in finally realizing that we don’t know God and can’t control Him—not in our prayers or by our actions. It brings peace because we no longer wake up every morning wondering if today is the day God will answer this or that prayer or change this or that situation. It also takes the load of guilt off that we didn’t pray the right way, didn’t fast enough or didn’t have enough faith. At the same time it’s not the same as praying ‘thy will be done’ as a safeguard. It’s more of a realization that we’re facing pure mystery. We need to just stand still and let God’s mystery present itself to us without injecting into that mystery our ‘knowledge’, expectations and demands. Now that’s freedom and peace!” (Quoted with permission)

This woman lost her child to cancer six months ago.

Don’t get the wrong idea. Just because she wrote the above doesn’t mean she is completely over the bone-wrenching grief and agony. It doesn’t mean she will never ask “Why?” again. It just means that she has taken a quantum jump past the destructive but common misconception that she could have controlled the outcome by what she did or how she prayed. Suffering is hard enough without the added anxiety and guilt of feeling that if we’d had more faith or had found the right prayer it might have ended differently or, if we had more trust, we might not be so incapacitated by grief. Saying, “Thy will be done,” while feeling it is wrong to honestly struggle with the agonizing questions of “Where was God? Where is He now? Why this happened?” may actually be unhealthy denial and can lead to even deeper pain and depression. Trying to maintain the image of towering spiritual strength when one is completely unravelled inside is not a Gospel value; it is the ego unable to admit poverty of spirit. The Gospels tell us that poverty of spirit is a state of the Blessed of God and that the Kingdom of God belongs to the poor, the weak, the ones who don’t know the answers and the ones who suffer.
Catholics and Muslims in Canada

Press Release from the Canadian Council of Catholic Bishops

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

Our Conference’s Episcopal Commission for Christian Unity, Religious Relations with the Jews, and Interfaith Dialogue has issued a resource entitled Catholics and Muslims in Canada: Believers and Citizens in Society. The project is meant to help Canadian Catholics better understand their Muslim neighbours. Our country is home to an impressive array of cultures and religions, and the Catholic Bishops of Canada wish to foster understanding and dialogue amongst the diverse people of our land.

Christianity and Islam are the two most populous religious groups in the world. For our own good and for the good of all humanity, we must learn to live in harmony with each other. In Canada we can do this by seeking to understand our Muslim neighbours. They comprise a fast-growing religious community in the country and their numbers are increasing at an even more rapid pace in urban areas than in other parts of the country.

The pamphlet is meant to help Canadian Catholics understand their Muslim neighbours. It is intended for use at the diocesan level, concluding with some suggestions about how everyone can contribute to such dialogue.

As beautifully proclaimed by Pope Francis in his Apostolic Exhortation, Evangelii Gaudium, we are called by our Baptism to be builders of a just and peaceful society:

“By preaching Jesus Christ, who is himself peace (cf. Eph 2:14), the new evangelization calls on every baptized person to be a peacemaker and a credible witness to a reconciled life. In a culture which privileges dialogue as a form of encounter, it is time to devise a means for building consensus and agreement while seeking the goal of a just, responsive and inclusive society” (n. 239).

+Paul-André Durocher
Archbishop of Gatineau and
President of the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops

This new resource is part of a series called A Church in Dialogue by the Commission which includes two other documents: “A Church in Dialogue: Catholic Ecumenical Commitment” and “A Church in Dialogue: Towards the Restoration of Unity among Christians”. The newly released resource is now available on the CCCB website (www.CCCB.ca), while printed copies can be ordered from CCCB Publications at 1-800-769-1147 or online at www.cccbpublications.ca

The Challenge of Pope Francis to the Church in Canada

Press Release from the Canadian Council of Catholic Bishops

The Episcopal Commission for Justice and Peace of the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops (CCCB) has published a new resource entitled A Church Seeking Justice: The Challenge of Pope Francis to the Church in Canada. Since his election as Bishop of Rome, the Holy Father “has brought an immediacy and specificity to Catholic social teaching that has made it a strong mark of his pontificate thus far,” states the Episcopal Commission in its text which was released today.

Dealing broadly with the themes of Human Dignity and Labour, War and Peace, and the Economics of Exclusion and Isolation, this document outlines the freshness and urgency with which Pope Francis is calling us to act for justice and offers reflection questions tailored to our Canadian context.

Throughout the document, in text boxes, the Bishops of the Episcopal Commission “have sought to make connections between the Holy Father’s teaching and some of the justice issues needing to be addressed in our own cities and world.” Although not exhaustive, the issues raised concern the disappearance of indigenous women, euthanasia, the welcoming of refugees, temporary foreign workers, income disparity, unemployment among Aboriginal youth and youth in general, the arms trade, peacekeeping, Canadian mining companies abroad, international assistance, poverty, the environment (the text was completed before the release of Laudato Si’), and the concept of the common good.

The Bishops invite readers to “listen to the challenging voice of Pope Francis, and to make connections between that teaching and the world around you in the particulars of your lives, your places of work, your parishes and communities, with eyes especially attentive to those in greatest need.”

For Pope Francis, “the Church’s social teaching—about those in poverty or afflicted by other forms of suffering, about economic injustice, and about war and peace—[rises] directly out of the Gospel proclaimed by Jesus Christ. He consistently and strongly sets his reflections on justice and mercy within a framework of faithfulness to Christ.” The Commission document also highlights how the Holy Father knows how to give a face to the poor by his gestures and his pastoral visits. “By pointing to real people and specific situations, Pope Francis highlights the urgency of the present moment, and invites an energetic and emotional response to counter the ‘globalization of indifference’ which has developed.”
National Aboriginal Day celebrations at St. Joseph’s General Hospital

Press Release from St. Joseph’s General Hospital

National Aboriginal Day was celebrated at St. Joseph’s General Hospital on Friday, June 19. This year’s celebrations included a presentation on Cultural Safety by Harley Eagle, Island Health’s Cultural Facilitator.

A highlight of the day’s events was the gifting of the Button Blanket Wall Hanging to the St. Joseph’s Maternal Child Department by Laurel Anderson, Aboriginal Liaison Nurse, on behalf of the women, children, families and Elders.

The Blanket Wall Hanging is a symbolic piece of art that was created by women and elders in the community. It is a part of a cultural safety project guided by and in partnership with the Aboriginal community. The gifting of this Blanket Wall hanging is in acknowledgement of the work that has been done by the staff, and the work that will continue to be done to provide culturally safe care to Aboriginal Women, babies and families.

Elders and families engaged in creating the button blanket wall hanging; once it was completed to where it needed the placement of buttons and beads, it was brought to the unit where Elders’ families and staff engaged in adding buttons and beads. The completed blanket will be displayed in the Maternal Child Department in recognition of the work accomplished.

K’omoks peoples’ traditional food, smoked fish and fry bread, were thoroughly enjoyed by all in attendance.

Press Release from Vatican Radio

Christian comfort is in Jesus, not in chatter

Pope Francis explained how in the responsorial psalm we repeat the words: “I am sure I will see the Lord’s kindness.”

Taking his inspiration from the St. Paul’s first letter to the Thessalonians about the need for a strong faith and hope in a final meeting with Christ, the Pope noted that the apostle wrote that the day of the Lord can arrive without warning “like a thief” but Jesus is coming to bring salvation to those who believe in Him. His advice, he said, is to comfort each other and help each other and this comfort will give you hope.

“This is my advice, ‘comfort each other’. Speak about this: but I’m asking you: do we speak about this, that the Lord will come and will we meet Him? Or do we speak about so many things, including theology, things about the Church, priests, religious sisters, monsignors, all this? And is this hope our comfort? ‘Comfort each other,’ comfort those in the community. In our community, in our parishes, are we speaking about this that we’re waiting for the Lord who comes? Or are we instead chattering about this and that and hope that pass the time and not get too bored?”

Pope Francis explained how in the responsorial psalm we repeat the words: “I am sure I will see the Lord’s kindness.”

Just as St Paul encouraged the early Christians, the Pope reiterated the saint’s advice to those in the Church today. “Comfort each other with good works and help each other. In this way, we can go ahead.”

“Let us ask the Lord for this grace: that seed of hope that he has planted in our soul will bear fruit. Let us comfort each other, and this comfort will give you hope. In this way, we can go ahead.”

God of love, show us our place in this world as channels of your love, for all the creatures of this earth, for not one of them is forgotten in your sight. Enlighten those who possess power and money that they may avoid the sin of indifference, that they may love the common good, advance the weak, and care for this world in which we live.

The poor and the earth are crying out.

Lord, seize us with your power and light, help us to protect all life, to prepare for a better future, for the coming of your Kingdom of justice, peace, love and beauty.

Praise be to you! Amen.

— Laudato Si’

Final verse of A Christian Prayer in Unison with Creation

ANSWERS TO ENCYCLOG MINIQUS

1. (a) – An encyclical is, literally, a circular letter to be spread through a community. Etymologically, it comes from the Greek word "encyklios" which means "circle.

2. (b) – “Let us ask the Lord for this grace: that seed of hope that he has planted in our soul will bear fruit. Let us comfort each other, and this comfort will give you hope. In this way, we can go ahead.”

3. False – Technically, “Praise be to you” was released only a draft from his predecessor.

4. (d) – Pope Benedict XVI

5. (c) – Every person on the planet

6. (d) – September 1

Diocesan Messenger – September 2015

Page 21
A good friend of mine hit a milestone a while ago. He asked me, "What is the biggest difference between turning 30 and turning 50?" My inner self glared at him. Externally, I waggled my eyebrows knowingly. "About 20 years," I replied archly. "What did they teach you in university?"

He persisted. "No, really. What do you know now that you wish you'd known at 30?"

There are so many answers to that. Because there's so much they don't tell you about getting older. Everything wrinkles. Everything. You ache when you wake up, even though you didn't really do anything memorable the night before—that you can remember, anyway. You take longer to heal from injuries (ask me how I know), digestion becomes the main topic of conversation, parts of you get closer to the floor and other parts just get wider, hair grows on body parts you didn't even know you had, and nouns become elusive at that moment when you need them most. I used to run a 10K in 42 minutes. These days, I'm happy to be awake and in one piece when I finish.

My brother phoned me just before he turned 40. "What's that thing called, that bit of your ear above your earlobe, just where your ear canal starts?" "I don't know," I said. "Just a minute." I polled the room, which contained my husband and the kid. The 10-year old piped up, "It's called the nublet!" (It was as good an answer as any.)

"It's the nublet," I reported. "Why?"

"I need to know. It's just sprouted hair."

No, getting older is not for wimps. It takes a certain amount of fortitude to withstand the march of time. Happily, we gain that over years; it doesn't just happen. So when my friend asked me that question, it wasn't the daily aches and pains that came to mind. Here's what leapt into my brain (in a rare moment of clarity): It's all seemed important and everything pains that came to mind. Here's what leapt into my brain (in a rare moment of clarity): At 50 you care so much less about the things you thought were important at 30."

At 50 you care so much less about the things you thought were important at 30?"

I tumbled, and the grasping, hungry churning engulfed me for a while. I once read something that suggested women 'come into their own' in their 30s. I don't know if that's right, or whether this process is exclusive to women because surely men go through these things too. For me, it was true. The tumult of my 20s started to subside, and as I moved through time and experience, I learned. Now in my 50s, I look back at young, struggling me, and my heart is full of compassion for that girl, for those decisions. They weren't all great, but they were all valuable.

I've learned that what matters to me is not what I have or do, but why I have and do things. I've learned that judgment is harsh, and compassion is necessary. I've learned that laughter can be faked but joy is unshakeable. I've learned that a vocation is fulfilling. I've learned that I have value exactly the way I am, that not everyone will like me, and that I won't like all the people whose struggling path intersects even briefly with mine. I've learned not to get blown off course by others' tempests; I've learned that kindness is non-negotiable, and mercy and acceptance are the most important things in the world. I've learned there is no substitute for my family, that true friends are worth their weight in gold, and that unconditional love isn't always easy but it's always right.

I've learned that it is as important to be as kind, merciful and loving to myself as I am to others; I've learned that balance is critical to contentment. You don't have to work as hard not to tumble when you are rooted in joy.

And I've learned that we choose what it is that matters to us, and in the end, we are the product of those choices. With this comes enormous responsibility, because none of us is disconnected. We are all part of each other's journeys and I am as affected by your choice as you are by mine, even if I don't see or agree with that choice.

These days, my yardstick has 'love' on one side and 'joy' on the other, and the midpoint is full of kindness and mercy. It is still invisible but now I'm not afraid of it because those measurements were chosen for me by One whose compassion knows no bounds and before Whom the chaos subsides into stillness.

And in the stillness, I learn of Him.
These children from Bolivia are thrilled to be going back to school thanks to Chalice sponsorship.

YOU can help us bring even more smiles to children who desperately want to go to school. Call or go online today to sponsor a child.

1 800 776 6855 www.chalice.ca

---

Coming to Vancouver Island!

A Weekend of Discovery... A Lifetime of Love!

Join millions of couples worldwide who have learned how to keep their marriage vibrant and alive!

To learn more about our October 2-4, 2015 at the Coast Bastion Hotel in Nanaimo, email www.catholicmarriagecentre.com or call 604 651 7298

“A perfect family does not exist. We should not be proud of imperfections, weaknesses or even failings, but rather learn how to deal with them constructively.” — Pope Francis

---

Planned Giving

Un Multiply

to Support the Ministries of Catholic Missions in Canada

Leave your gift to Catholic Missions in Canada as part of your will. It may be a gift of cash, a cottage, a stock, a life insurance policy or many other assets.

Gift Types:

- Cash
- Real Estate
- Personal Property (Motor Vehicles)
- Life Insurance
- RRSP/RRA

Mail to:

Catholic Missions in Canada

550 - 1333 Seymour St.
Vancouver, BC V6A 2B1

---

Russ Hay’s The Bicycle Store

680 Hillsdale Avenue
Victoria BC V8T 1Z2
(250) 384-4722

9781 A-2nd Street
Sidney BC V8L 4P8
(250) 658-1512

Russ Hay’s knows bikes... from high-end mountain and racing bikes to commuting, touring and cruising bikes—or your child’s first bike, the Russ Hay’s staff can find the right fit for you.

Our experienced mechanics are known for custom wheel building, and have knowledge and skill in every aspect of bicycles past and current. Whether it’s time for a tune-up or you’re looking for your special Next Bike... you can trust your cycling to us.

Interested in riding with a group? Join us: Tuesdays (Intermediate) and Thursdays (advanced) at 6 pm, or Saturday mornings (novice, intermediate and training) at 10 am, all leaving from the Victoria location.

Russ Hay’s: we’ve got a ride for you!
Fun and fellowship at annual Diocesan family camp

By Marnie Wynans

In the Spirit of the upcoming 2015 World Meeting of Families in Philadelphia to be held September 22 – 28, families from across the Diocese gathered together at Camp Barnard in Sooke to play, pray and relax with each other against a beautiful West Coast backdrop.

Keynote speakers Brett and Andrea Powell, parents of eight children and Catholic missionaries in Vancouver, were there all weekend to engage and inspire participants. Parents were treated to several talks on living the Catholic faith in all areas of life. During the sessions, the children were busy playing games, making new friends while doing crafts under the guidance of youth volunteers. Teens had their own special late-night talk with Brett, who shared fascinating stories of his own life. Spare time was spent at the lake canoeing, kayaking, swimming and hiking the local trails.

The amazing food was prepared by Angela Grohovac and her team of kitchen helpers who served delicious home-cooked meals that allowed families to spend quality time together, enjoying a lovely dinner.

One of the highlights of the weekend was having Jesus in the Eucharist in a monstrance under a tent for Perpetual Adoration. People of all ages could be seen at all hours sitting with Jesus in silent conversation. Fr. Dean Henderson was our chaplain for the weekend and made sure all our spiritual needs were met with beautiful outdoor Mass, Confession and Adoration.

Plans are already underway for next year at the beautiful Nanoose Bay Pentecostal Camp just north of Nanaimo. Save the weekend of Aug 12 – 14, 2016 for a special family getaway!