Comparative Studies of Eastern and Western Theatre Cultures

SHGH THTR 3312

This course is being offered at East China Normal University, CAPA’s academic partner in Shanghai. The Chinese academic system differs from the US, particularly with grading. ECNU professors expect students to undertake a good deal of independent study to achieve a high mark in their classes.

ECNU classes fill quickly, so make your selections as soon as possible. Please have an alternative ECNU course in mind in case your first choice is unavailable.

Course Description
Taking this course, students will have opportunities to watch the fantastic performance of traditional Chinese drama (Peking Opera, Kun Opera or Yue Opera) at downtown theatre as well as watching videos of Greek tragedies, Indian dramas and western modern plays (some western plays are shown in the style of traditional Chinese drama). After finishing this course, students would have a good understanding of the similarities and differences between Chinese and western drama, and acquire a special perspective to look at the intercultural communication between China and the rest of the world.

Learning Objectives
On the completion of this course, students will:
(1) Gain fundamental knowledge about the three ancient dramas: Greek drama, Indian Sanskrit drama, and traditional Chinese drama.
(2) Know about the dissemination and reception of western drama in China.
(3) Learn about the dissemination and reception of traditional Chinese drama in the west.
(4) Know about the similarities and differences between Chinese and western dramas.
(5) Have a good understanding of the intercultural communication between China and the rest of the world in the perspective of dramatic art.
