A message for:

Judges

Who Am I?

"As a judge, I sit on the bench day after day listening to stories of juveniles who have committed crimes. From petty to more heinous ones. Some I send some to jail. Some I put on probation. Some I order into counseling. But a depressing aspect to my job is the same young faces appear before me over and over. There must be better way to help the young offenders and their families while keeping our communities safe."

What Is MST?

Multisystemic Therapy is an intensive family and community-based treatment program that focuses on addressing all environments that impact juvenile offenders. That sets us apart from other therapies. We get the schools, teachers, neighborhoods and peers involved. We engage families by helping parents and caregivers set boundaries and rules and then give them the strength to follow through. We also give families a voice by giving them a way to provide feedback about their therapist and treatment.
