REPUTATION INSTITUTE LAUNCHES NEW GLOBAL REPUTATION TRACKER SERVICE IN THE UNITED KINGDOM

Reputation Tracker provides faster feedback and deeper insights for companies and benchmarking against competitors

LONDON (September 1, 2015) – Reputation Institute today launched its new Reputation Tracker service in the United Kingdom to provide companies with continuous measurement and quarterly reports on their corporate reputations. The Reputation Tracker service, based on the RepTrak® framework, was also released today in Denmark, France, Germany, and Mexico in the first phase of a global expansion that will continue into 2016.

“Today’s fast-paced world of news and social media requires corporate communications leaders to be able to measure and manage their efforts immediately,” said Ed Coke, director of consulting services at the Reputation Institute U.K. and Ireland. “The U.K. Reputation Tracker pairs the timely insights they need along with the in-depth analysis that comes from the RepTrak® measurement framework that only Reputation Institute can provide.”

The U.K. Reputation Tracker is the largest continuous reputation measurement service ever in the United Kingdom. Clients receive in-depth quarterly reports, Key Performance Indicators, and benchmarks along with quarterly results workshops that address key issues such as Brand Alignment, the Return on Reputation, CSR Alignment and Reputation Risk to regularly track company progress. Included in the service is the ability to benchmark against the five most reputable companies in the U.K. as well as three competitors, with additional companies available for a nominal fee.

The new service is built on the foundation of Reputation Institute’s RepTrak® – the deepest normative reputation database in the world and the gold standard of reputation measurement and benchmarking. RepTrak® provides companies with the insight to understand the emotional connection that key stakeholders have with their company and the logical reasons for those connections. Companies leverage the RepTrak® database for insight into historical reputation data for the past 10 years and hundreds of thousands of ratings from the general public for in-depth market segmentation by demographic.
