

Gayla Cooper Congdon

Gayla holds the position of Founder and Chief Spiritual Officer. Gayla communicates the goals, mission, and purpose of the organization to its constituents. She earned a master's degree in 1989 from Hope International University and was presented an honorary doctorate in Humanities from Northwest Christian College in June of 2000.

In 2013, her book, "Disrupted: Cultivating a Mission-Focused Life" (Standard Publishing), became a Christian bestseller with an international readership. Gayla and her husband Scott are collaborating on a new book, "The Whimsical Servant," that will be available Christmas 2016.

Gayla is a sought-after speaker internationally. Her strength is the ability to speak across generations on a wide variety of topics from her 35 years as a missionary. She conveys her passion of being a follower of Christ through the art of storytelling. Even though she has spoken all over the world her favorite place to speak is around a campfire in Mexico or a township in South Africa.
