iBroker Announces SkySlope Integration

iBroker, a powerful back office management application by GryphTech Inc., is proud to announce its latest integration with SkySlope. SkySlope is the industry-leading transaction management software, supporting 1500 brokerages in over 4,800 offices across the United States and Canada. iBroker and SkySlope share a common goal of improving the efficiency of brokerage operations. Users of both products can now enjoy a more streamlined user experience. SkySlope transactions import seamlessly in iBroker with a single click, improving workflow efficiency between applications and eliminating duplicate entry. Together, iBroker and SkySlope offer real estate brokerages an easier way to manage their office and financials.

"One of our top priorities is investing in technology that simplifies the way brokers do business. This application integration helps us accomplish this," said Carlos Matias, CEO of GryphTech and creator of iBroker, "We will continue working with industry leaders, such as SkySlope, to ensure our customers experience the most efficient and effective system possible."

Tyler Smith, founder and CEO of SkySlope, concurs, "We are excited to integrate with iBroker and further streamline the transaction management workflow for our shared customers. This integration saves office administrators the need to re-enter data, optimizing their productivity and improving accuracy."

This latest iBroker software integration adds to a growing list of application integrations, supporting iBroker's market position as the simple, easy to use alternative to other leading back office software. iBroker is described as everything you need, nothing you don't.

About iBroker
iBroker is a powerful back office management application for North American real estate brokerages. It is designed to simplify office administration processes so brokerages can focus on what they do best - grow their business. Easy to use. Cloud based. Mobile friendly. Experience the iBroker advantage at goibroker.com

About SkySlope
Pioneering the industry standard in digital transaction management technology, SkySlope currently services real estate professionals in all 50 states as well as Canada. Forty-two percent of the top 100 brokerages in the United States leverage the company's full suite of solutions in the form of mobile accessibility, secure cloud storage, and paperless transaction processing.

Learn more at goibroker.com/skyslope

SKYSLOPE®