

Get to know our team!

Dave Food

Dave brings significant breadth of skill and capability in the use of software to improve supply chains and unlock potential, whether globally or locally, co-operative or enterprise wide solutions, Dave has delivered and continues deliver significant value. An influencer who uses social tools to the max.

He has a breadth and depth of experience that will add value to any team looking to generate benefit out of supply chain or social media. An evangelist on supply chain and social media he brings a prophetic edge to future thinking. (A Supply Chain Futurologist)

Specialities: Business and Market Development in the Supply chain and software markets. Strategy skills in team development, vision setting and goal achievement.

Salvador C. Hermoso

Salvador C. Hermoso is a professional marketer from, who is always looking out for the latest marketing technologies. He is always eager to help companies find a creative marketing solution as a team.

Salvador also has a great set of communication skills in several languages which allows him to help solve problems on a wide variety of markets and countries always with the proper concept on how to deliver every client's message to its right audience.

Specialities: social media management, market research, branding and strategic planning, avid user of marketing tools like hubspot, sprout social and hootsuite among others.

Olu Osinoiki

Olumide Osinoiki is a visual artist utilizing his photography and videography skills as a means of communication with the masses, typically via social media platforms. His main focus is bringing depth of meaning to a client's visual representation. He also specialises in producing engaging creative content for promotional or advertising purposes.

Specialities: audio and visual design.

Prophetic Technology is a team of dedicated people that combine their expertise in business domains with a passion to release potential to help companies fulfil their destiny.

Our approach is simple, we provide the knowledge and expertise to help you fine tune your goals.

We look to partner and deliver value quickly ensuring sustainable success.

PT helps both new and mature companies on their needs in supply chain, marketing leadership and strategic planning.

Get to know our team!

Daniel Abreu

Daniel is PT's web designer bringing the digital and creative elements to our prophetic engine. With a marketing and design background he has a passion for creating responsive websites, user interfaces and designing awesome marketing campaigns. His main expertise lies within brand identity, devising fresh simple solutions and delivering a user-friendly experience.

Specialities: Web Design, Graphic Design, User Interface Design, Digital Marketing, Social Media, Brand Identity, Marketing, Adobe Creative Suite, HTML & CSS.

Gaby Remus

Gaby Remus completed a master's Degree in marketing in Mexico, she is passionate about social networks and how to enhance business through them. She has focused on generating multimedia content with the aim to creating commitment on the user's side of social networks, developing an effective communication channel between users and the company. She always seeks to innovate and to take risks, especially creating marketing strategies by not doing things in their traditional way.

She has worked in Marketing for academic institutions and in the Retail Sales market for transnational companies.

Specialties: community management, content design and data analysis.

Betty Aguirre

Betty is an experienced teacher and writer from Mexico, expert in the academic and supply chain fields with a huge passion for researching new areas of interest and trending topics. She now works as a full-time writer and researcher for PT.

Specialities: content generation and research.