

FINISHED GOODS COAs

Automated Supplier, Compliance, & Regulatory Document Management for the Food Supply Chain

TraceGains Module: Finished Goods COAs

Publishing finished goods Certificates of Analysis (COAs) is part of everyday business. But for many it is a labor-intensive process that involves a lot of cutting and pasting from various data sources. Gathering all these data points for COA attributes is time-consuming, especially if you have to consolidate information from disparate sources such as instruments, third-party labs, etc. Finally, printing, faxing, attaching, and emailing these documents wastes even more valuable time.

TraceGains automated supplier, compliance, and regulatory document management solution makes creating and sending your own COAs a snap. Leveraging existing customer and item-level information, the system will automatically generate finished goods COAs and let you email them with one click to the necessary customer(s).

The Two-Step Process is Simple

Step 1

TraceGains allows you to automatically upload COA attribute data from your existing sources, such as spreadsheets, LIMS systems, and various databases. You can also directly enter attribute data into TraceGains, and go back to revise or amend information at any time prior to sending the COA.

Step 2

Once all the necessary lot information is in TraceGains, you can deliver your COAs to customers with the press of a button. The TraceGains system understands that each customer may need a uniquely formatted COA or email message, and allows you to create unique templates for individual customers. Then the system's automated recordkeeping keeps track of what you sent to whom, and when, and even lets you assess and report on your own historical performance (how well do you really satisfy your customers' needs?).

Easy Setup

For any company you supply, you simply need to create the customer record (including the key contact or contacts) and link the items you supply to that customer. You are then ready at any time to email your Finished Goods COA to the intended recipient directly out of the TraceGains system.
