

Futures Brokerage Capital Trading Group Announces Launch of Managed Futures Podcast

The podcast explores tactics, tools and infrastructure to help investors and CTAs focus on trading and investment performance

CHICAGO (PRWEB) August 21, 2019 -- Capital Trading Group, LP (“CTG”), an investment firm specializing in execution and account management for commodity trading advisors, has announced the release of its new Managed Futures Podcast hosted by firm principal and alternative investments specialist, Nell Sloane.

The new podcast explores tactics, tools and infrastructure to help investors and commodity trading advisors focus on trading and investment performance through interviews and candid conversations with thought leaders and CTAs in managed futures and alternative investing.

“Our podcast delivers valuable managed futures and money management information while empowering listeners to form a more personal connection with the CTAs we interview,” comments Nell Sloane. “We’ve tailored our content and format to serve busy on-the-go investors and CTAs through brief episodes that dive deep into managed futures topics.”

In the first episode, Ms. Sloane speaks with Larry McMillan, author of the bestselling book “Options as a Strategic Investment,” popularly known as the options bible, discussing his journey into the world of finance, his trading style and strategy and more.

In the second episode, Ms. Sloane interviews Thomas Kochanek, founder of 1512 St. Gallen Capital Management. During his research at the University of St. Gallen, Thomas developed his own trading strategies, which serves as the backbone for his firm.

Listeners can visit capitaltradinggroup.com to subscribe to the podcast or subscribe through Blubrry, Apple Podcasts, Stitcher, Google Podcasts, Spotify, TuneIn, Android, or by email to receive notifications when new episodes are released for download.
