

Check who has written about your competitors.

The same people may be interested in covering your company especially if you have a novel angle.

See who has written about complementary companies.

For example, if you have a sales database company, determine what coverage companies in the sales consulting space have achieved.

Research your topic on Google to see who has written about it.

Check relevant hashtags on social media.

Check associations in your industry that may curate articles.