Privacy Policy and Cookie Statement

Xillio protects your personal data and privacy. In this privacy policy, we tell you which personal data we collect and in what way we store and use it. This privacy policy applies to our website www.xillio.com (the website) and the services we provide.

Which data do we store?
Your personal data can be stored in different ways, such as: when you make a personal account on our support site, when you make use of our services, when you download something, request information and when you contact us. We store your data, such as: name, address, phone number, job title and e-mail address.

We can also store non-personal data, such as: the type of your browser, the type of your computer and technical information on how you are reaching our website.

Why do we store your personal data?
We store and process your data to improve and protect our website and services and to manage your personal account. Sometimes we will use your personal data to send you important information, like modifications of our terms and conditions or our privacy policy.

You can sign up for our newsletter, so you keep up with the latest Xillio news. If you don't want to receive any newsletters, you can click the sign out link in the newsletter.

We will not share your information with others, without your permission.

How do we protect your personal data?
We are doing everything possible to protect your personal data from loss, destruction, usage, alterations or distribution by unauthorised persons. We use Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) to do so. This way, third parties that have nothing to do with your data, cannot reach it.

Your rights: How can I see, modify, or delete my personal data?
You can see, change or delete your data at all times. You can also object to receiving targeted information about our services we send you by email. If you would like to use these possibilities, please send an e-mail to office@xillio.nl.

Cookies
We use cookies on our website to make our website more user friendly. A cookie is a tiny piece of information that will be saved to your computer when you visit our website. Cookies make it possible for our website to recognize you when you return to us. Next to that, because of cookies our website is quicker and safer. Cookies also make it easier for us to spot errors on our website. If you want to disable cookies, you can change the settings of your browser. But please note: you will not have the best experience that our website has to offer.

Social media cookies
On our website's blog, we show buttons of the social networks Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter and Google+, so you can easily share information about us on social media. These buttons are pieces of code of the social media itself, and use a cookie. This cookie remembers that you are logged in so that you do not have to log in every time you want to share something.

By installing a program such as 'Disconnect' for Chrome and Firefox, you can switch off this feature.

Outgoing links
This website may contain links to other websites. We are not responsible for the content or (lack of) privacy protection of those websites. Therefore, we advise you to always read the privacy statements of the linked websites.

Alterations of the Privacy Policy
We may update this privacy policy, from time to time. If we alter this policy profoundly, we will notify you by e-mail and we will mention it on the website.
