

Global Freight Forwarders

WIN MORE TENDERS

Winning more tenders is critical to the success of your forwarding operation, but responding to bids is a manual, time-consuming process that relies too heavily on spreadsheets, emails and human memory—with too little time and staff to get everything done. With the cost of responding to a tender often exceeding 35,000 Euros, while inefficiencies in sharing pricing and lane information across bid desks, commercial teams, product managers, pricing and contracts results in unnecessary delays that lower your win rates.
