

STAFF AUGMENTATION SERVICES

Ensure you have the right skill set when you need it to protect your business

With over 1 million unfilled jobs in cybersecurity, finding the right information security professional with the right skill set presents a serious challenge for your organization.

Do you hire a specialist in one area, or someone that has a limited knowledge in several areas? Even if you have the will and the budget, there are no easy decisions. And compounding the issue is the fact that great talent is in high demand, making recruitment extremely competitive.

Without the right expertise in place and with your existing staff at over 100% capacity, your security projects can be held up or never even started. These weaknesses in your security posture put your business at significant risk from the evolving and sophisticated threat of cyber attacks.

"53% of organizations experience delays as long as 6 months to find qualified security candidates."
