

VISUAL STORYTELLER

AXON VIBE – we make smartphones smart.

Axon VIBE develops a location-based contextual platform that detects and predicts human behaviour.

We provide the technology to help public transport operators get ready for and lead one of the fastest, deepest, most consequential disruptions of transportation in history. It is predicted that in the future miles travelled will be served by on-demand vehicles owned by fleets, not individuals, in a new business model called Transport-as-a-Service (TaaS).

Axon VIBE is working with forward thinking transportation agencies across the world and provides the technology powering mobile applications to orchestrate the door-to-door mobility without compromising users' trust.

Besides precision, design and creativity, we also like the Open Sans Light Font, screaming goats and real BBQs.

We are looking forward to you!

Our Serendipity Team is a small group of creative thinkers and UI/UX designers, who's task is to catapult the customer experience on our mobile applications to the next level. We are looking for an ambitious Visual Storyteller with the irrepressible drive to think out of the box and to redefine the mobile customer experiences of tomorrow.

We are looking for a confident personality that

- o has an extraordinary passion and curiosity when it comes to transforming disruptive ideas into real use cases and mobile apps
- o has conceptual and visual skills to deliver outstanding contextual communication and mobile design, from drafting to detailed realisation
- o enjoys working in inter-disciplinary teams and values different perspectives
- o has several years of professional experience in visual storytelling and/or as a designer of mobile digital products, with an impressive portfolio
- o is fluent in both written and spoken English and German
- o brings in additional education in Human Computer Interaction and/or Design Thinking as a plus.

You can expect a diversified and challenging position in a young, dynamic tech company with a bold vision. We are headquartered in a castle overlooking the picturesque City of Lucerne, Switzerland, and have offices in the UK, New York City and Hong Kong.

Bring your great attitude, along with your storytelling and design skills and let's see what we can achieve together. Please send your application to: hr@axonactive.ch. In case of questions, our Head of Human Resources, Manuela Unger, can be reached on +41 41 249 25 96.