
MedSpa Consumer Consultation Checklist

We've listened to tens of thousands of consumers over 13 years and found that most patients are ill prepared to enter the world of medical aesthetics. There are misconceptions and miseducation, fears and unbelievable claims. With a little education you can go into medical aesthetic services confidently and with a clear understanding of what to expect.

We've identified 4 key areas to address for your initial consultation. They are:

- 1. Pre-Consultation Self Analysis
- 2. Experience and Expertise
- 3. Treatments and Results
- 4. Costs

On the next pages you will find a detailed checklist of items to discuss with your medspa provider before engaging in services or treatments.

The checklist is simply a tool to help you become an educated consumer of the vast array of medspa products and services. Although this is a fast growing industry and there are many companies to choose from, the services are medical in nature and it is important to take control of your health and treatment with clear and accurate information. Take this form with you to reference during your consultation (or skin analysis). It will remind you to ask deeper questions about the organization providing the services. A consultation is not simply a time for the company to tell you about service options...this is your opportunity to ask them questions and address all your concerns.

Pre-Consultation: Identify Concerns

- How long is the treatment or course of treatments
- What are the chemicals or natural products in the treatment
- Will anyone “know” I’ve had treatment, how “natural” are the results
- What level of pain or discomfort should I expect
 - If pain is possible, what techniques are used for pain management
- What kind of results should I expect
- Is there any recovery time or “downtime” where my daily activities are impacted
 - Can you drive yourself home
 - Do you need post treatment medication
 - Can I workout or go out in public/work the next day
- Are results immediate or revealed over time
 - Note: Botox® can reveal effects over 4-7 days
