How Virtual Coaching with Video is Helping Remake the Way Teachers Learn at Work with Justin Baeder

Consider how virtual coaching with video can benefit your teachers.

Sibme Virtual Coaching is for you if:

- ☐ You are committed to providing your teachers with quality, job-embedded support and professional learning.
- ☐ You see coaching as a way to support and retain teachers.
- ☐ You are under-resourced with instructional leadership staff and struggle finding time to coach teachers.
- ☐ You have teachers with needs outside the scope of your instructional expertise.
- ☐ You are hiring an increasing number of alternatively certified teachers.
- ☐ You are looking for a systematic way to improve the collective efficacy within your school.
- ☐ You are looking to promote a school-wide approach to... anything.
- ☐ You prioritize building the instructional leadership capacity within your staff.

Teachers at Trinity Christian Academy “take the mic” to describe their professional learning experience with Sibme.

Donna Blanco, a HS SS teacher, appreciated “...having a thinking partner. My coach was perfectly matched, and the process ignites you.”

“When you watch and listen to yourself on the video,” observed Kindergarten teacher Nicole Scott, “it’s a game changer. I hear my coach’s voice in my head....my coach is my partner!”

“The process is a win-win-win,” according to Nicole. Teachers benefit from the collaboration with a coach, which reflects in the instruction, so student learning is increased, and colleagues witness the success of the process.

3rd grade teacher Raistlin Anderson remembers his first coaching meeting, “My coach started with ‘Hey, this isn’t me just telling you what to do.’ Then I knew we’d figure things out together.”
