Press Release

Learners Edge Announces Expanded Partnership with Andrews University, Providing Increased Professional Development Opportunities for Teachers throughout Michigan

Lakeville, MN, March 5, 2018: Learners Edge announces the expansion of a strategic academic partnership improving the reach of continuing education courses for teachers throughout the state of Michigan. While Learners Edge courses have been used by teachers throughout Michigan for more than a decade, the expanded partnership with highly respected Andrews University will enhance reach, teacher choice and more easily meet teacher's professional development needs.

Learners Edge offers over 120 continuing education options. Courses are designed for PreK-12 educators addressing many of today's educational needs including curriculum focused upon ADHD, Literacy, Technology, Social-Emotional Learning, and Educator Wellness. Courses are self-paced and able to be completed without having to step foot on the college campus, providing the flexibility that busy teachers need as they dedicate their time and energy to their classrooms.

"Education changes so quickly," said Joe Cotter, President and CEO of Learners Edge, "We have a team of former teachers and administrators constantly developing rigorous, applicable courses that are geared towards helping teachers stay in tune with the needs of today's children." Cotter continues, "Our new partnership with Andrews University will help deliver that applicable learning to even more education professionals."

Andrews University continues to offer a wide range of undergraduate teaching degrees and graduate programs. Through the expanded Learners Edge partnership, the ability to reach teachers throughout Michigan and even on a national basis will significantly expand. New and experienced teachers and administrators looking to enhance their knowledge base and teaching techniques, will easily be able to find a wide range of courses to suit their needs.

Teachers interested in registering for continuing education graduate credit through Andrews University, should visit Learners Edge website and select Andrews University as their partner institution: <http://www.learnersedge.com>).
