Learners Edge Announces Partnership with Gannon University, Expanding Professional Development Options for Teachers throughout Pennsylvania

Lakeville, MN, March 5, 2018: Learners Edge announces the addition of a new academic partner expanding the reach of continuing education courses for teachers throughout the state of Pennsylvania. While Learners Edge courses have been used by teachers throughout Pennsylvania, a partnership with highly respected Gannon University will expand teacher choice and further meet their professional development needs.

Learners Edge offers over 120 continuing education options. Courses are designed for PreK-12 educators addressing many of today's educational needs including curriculum focused upon ADHD, Literacy, Technology, Social-Emotional Learning, and Educator Wellness. Courses are self-paced and able to be completed without having to step foot on the college campus, providing the flexibility that busy teachers need as they dedicate their time and energy to their classrooms.

"Education changes so quickly," said Joe Cotter, President and CEO of Learners Edge, "We have a team of former teachers and administrators constantly developing rigorous, applicable courses that are geared towards helping teachers stay in tune with the needs of today's children." Cotter continues, "Our new partnership with Gannon University will help deliver that applicable learning to even more education professionals."

Gannon University continues to offer a wide range of undergraduate and graduate education degrees. Through the new Learners Edge partnership, Gannon will be able to significantly expand their offerings and deliver a wider range of Act 45/48 eligible, graduate level, continuing education courses for new and experienced Pennsylvania teachers and administrators looking to expand their knowledge base and teaching techniques.

Pennsylvania teachers interested in registering for continuing education graduate credit through Gannon University, should visit Learners Edge website and explore current course offerings at:
