

Become a Penn Foster Externship Site Partner

Now is the time to set your business up for growth. Veterinary practices with credentialed technicians and assistants supporting veterinarians are primed to increase patient satisfaction, care, and quantity. Becoming a recognized Penn Foster externship site not only allows you to support veterinary technicians and assistants in training, it can also have a positive and long term impact on your practice or clinic.

Demand for trained veterinary technicians and assistants is expected to increase 19% by 2028

Build a Talent Pipeline

Penn Foster's veterinary technician & assistant students are training to fill vacant entry-level positions across the nation. Helping to train these students through externship at your practice(s) allows you to transition them into valued workers after graduation.

Ensure Quality of Workers

By their first externship, students have learned a majority of basic veterinary and people skills, allowing them to add value to your practice right away.

Grow Your Practice

Alleviate entry-level skill requirements from your veterinarians, leaving them more time to diagnose, prescribe, or perform surgery.
