What is novel about it?

This platform allows a user to input their credentials into various connected streaming media services in order to see all of the content the user can access through their subscribed services in one place and stream any of the content without leaving the platform. This currently does not exist with respect to the larger streaming services (e.g. Netflix, Hulu, HBO, Amazon Prime) and would be a new way for users to browse the content they can access through their various streaming media subscriptions.

What problems does it solve?

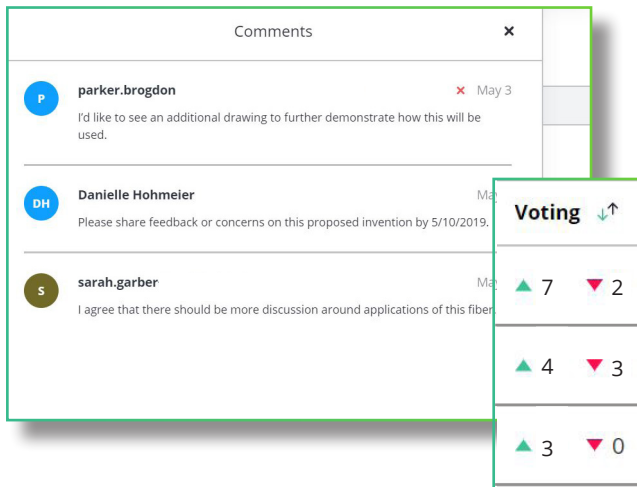

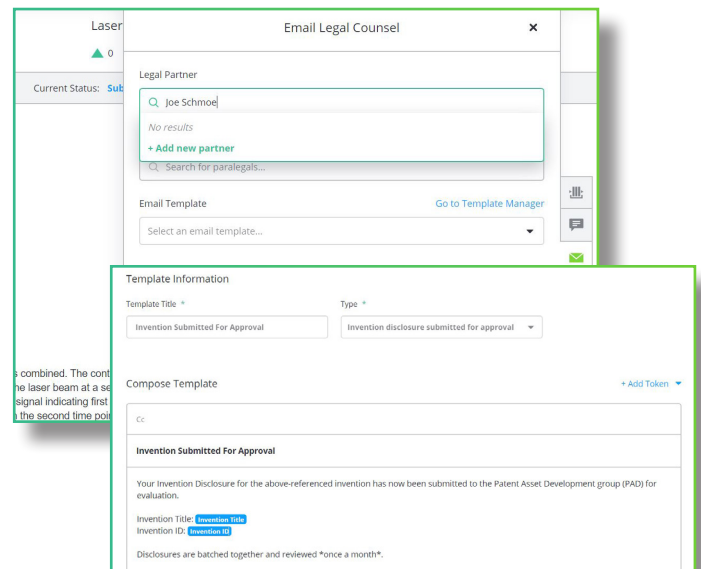

This invention prevents a user from needing to access multiple different applications to see all of the content available to them through their Consistent and comprehensive invention disclosures.

Our guided invention disclosure form leads inventors through the disclosure process with intuitive Q&A. The ability to upload associated drawings, Visio documents, videos, and data files ensures you have all the details you need to move forward.

Secure communication with legal partners and outside counsel.

You'll never have to email a zip file again. With Invent, you can email legal partners and outside counsel from directly within the app, providing all the invention information in one, secure location.

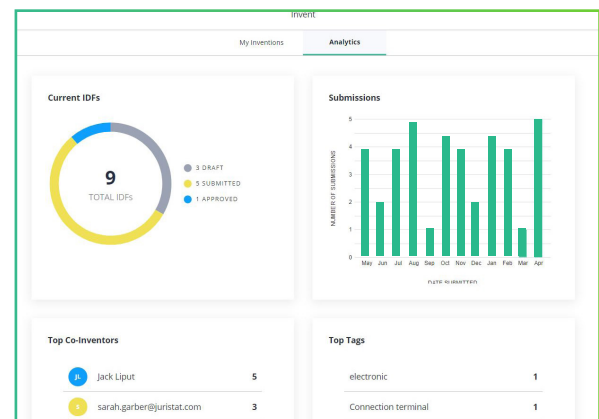

Collaboration – without all the meetings.

In-app email and comment functionality encourages discussion and streamlines the review process. Simple up-voting and downvoting makes it easy to prioritize your most popular inventions.

The data you need to drive decision-making.

Easy-to-read analytics chart your organization's most prolific inventors, invention status, and submission volume over time, so you can quickly identify trends and capitalize on new opportunities.
