Evolute qualifies for the F10 Scaleup Program

F10 Fintech Incubator & Accelerator announced the 12 start-ups selected from over 80 applications from different countries for the new Scaleup Program. Evolute is one of them. The program and cooperation with the F10 members and the ecosystem comes at exactly the right time for Evolute. The company is currently developing from a pure asset management solution to a marketplace for financial products and services.

F10 Fintech Incubator & Accelerator announced the 12 post-revenue start-ups selected for the first season of the new Scaleup Program. More than 80 teams from different countries, which are already established in the market and generate ongoing turnover, applied. The start-ups included in the program have on the one hand the opportunity to cooperate with established F10 members, and on the other access to the far-reaching F10 ecosystem. In addition, they come into contact with the F10 investor network and gain valuable insights into sales, growth strategies and fund raising.

The timing of the nomination is very convenient. The technology firm is building its software for independent asset managers and multi-family offices into an open marketplace for financial products and services. Specific data and services, such as regulatory audit services and tax reports, are offered on the marketplace and being developed into an ecosystem. Evolute has already begun to build a steadily growing ecosystem and recently announced the strategic partnership with the leading auditing and trust company, BDO.

"I am very proud that Evolute has been selected for the sought-after F10 Scaleup Program. Our aim is to develop Evolute from a pure provider of asset management solutions to a marketplace with an open ecosystem. I am convinced that the program will support us in the further development of our new business model. ", explains Myriam Reinle, CEO of Evolute.

Thanks to the digital marketplace of Evolute, asset management is becoming more flexible, more modern, more efficient and added value for customers is strongly upgraded.
