LIFE BEFORE NETCHEX

At Community Builders, Mary functions as their bookkeeper and takes care of accounts payable, accounts receivable and payroll - so she has her hands full. Plus, prior to becoming a Netchex client, Mary was doing everything in-house, creating way more manual work than necessary. Manual work also means there's more room for human calculation errors, which can potentially lead to even more work to make corrections. With Netchex, automation helps lighten Mary's load and gives assurance her calculations will be correct.

WHY NETCHEX IS THE BEST SOLUTION

With so much work on her plate, Mary needed a less manual Time and Attendance system that would give her accurate data in real-time. Netchex's time and attendance functionality lets her make every second count in keeping track of her staff and their time. By monitoring excessive absences, overtime worked and unscheduled work, Netchex time and attendance can use her archived data to forecast her labor costs and offers insightful reports into her scheduling and staffing. All of these automated and autocalculated options are what make Mary's job that much easier, and saves her company money as well with the ability to accurately forecast.

In addition to time and attendance, Community Builders utilizes several Netchex modules, like NetGuide for onboarding and Employee And Manager Self-Service. Since she spends so much time in Netchex, Mary is bound to run into a question or two when using it. When asked what her favorite part of Netchex is, she doesn't hesitate to first and foremost mention our Service department. She knows that when she makes a call or sends an email to her service team, a dedicated service associate from her Advocate team will hop on the problem and get it resolved with accuracy and in a timely manner. Our service team basically functions as additional team members for Mary as she tackles her various duties, getting her job done efficiently, accurately and with a smile.

“Anything that I have had to contact the team about has been answered quickly with very helpful answers.”
