C.S. Lewis Reading Class: The Screwtape Letters & The Great Divorce {AC-CSL}

Description: This class will examine Lewis's ideas about Heaven and Hell by reading through and discussing, book-club style, two of Lewis' most popular and inventive books: The Screwtape Letters and The Great Divorce. Screwtape examines the Christian life from the perspective of a senior demon attempting to provide advice to a junior demon intent on tempting a young Christian convert. The Great Divorce presents a story of a group of people who are given one last attempt to abandon the hopelessness of Hell for the beauty of Heaven. Both books are profound looks at what it means to focus on Heaven or hold, often desperately, onto Earth and Hell. Come join us as we discuss these books and dive into the imaginative world of C.S. Lewis. Open to any Rhetoric students, entering grades 10-12 (or recent graduates) and adults.
