First National Technology Solutions Introduces Microsoft™ SQL as a Service

(OMAHA, Neb. May 4, 2015). – First National Technology Solutions (FNTS) has added Microsoft SQL as a Service (SQLaaS) to its suite of hosted and remote managed services, announced Kim Whittaker, vice president. “This is yet another service from FNTS that differentiates us in the market, providing clients with flexible and customizable solutions that leverage enterprise hardware and our depth of engineering expertise, while allowing for client visibility and as much control as they want to have over the database environment,” Whittaker said.

She said that clients will benefit from the increased performance of Solid State Flash storage for their databases, and the ability to scale the resources up or down based on their business needs.

“FNTS is excited to announce the SQL as a Service offering,” said Whittaker. “We believe this offering will allow clients more flexibility and a lower-cost solution for running and supporting their SQL server environments. As part of this capability, our staff of engineers is available to assist our clients with database monitoring, management and overall recommendations depending upon the client’s current needs and staffing levels.”
