

Michael Lang, Principal, Provident Energy Consulting, LLC

Michael Lang is Principal at Provident Energy Consulting, LLC, where he provides industry insights and expertise to help clients make informed decisions regarding their energy needs. Provident explores traditional and non-traditional sources of supply to develop effective energy strategies that help clients use energy more effectively and pay less for the energy being used.

Michael has over 15 years of experience in the intensely competitive and rapidly changing deregulated energy industry. His specific areas of energy industry and business expertise include project and product development, target marketing, procurement, strategic consulting, technology architecture and integration, and software development.

In addition to his professional accomplishments, Michael has served as a volunteer coach with several local high school and youth football programs.

Michael graduated from Penn State University in 1999 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Geoscience.