

Russo Business School Student Wellbeing and Support Policy

Scope & Purpose

This policy and procedure applies to all staff and students of Russo Business School Pty Ltd ABN 34 601 105 319 trading as Russo Business School (RBS) (CRICOS Provider Code – 03441F).

Russo Business School is committed to ensuring our students are welcomed, respected and safe. Our commitment is to ensure our learning environment is free from discrimination and harassment, including sexual harassment and sexual assault.

Russo Business School considers that welfare and support services are important sources of easing students into higher education life, helping them adjust to their new living environment and enabling them to achieve their academic goals. This policy document has been developed to provide a clear statement on the welfare and support services available at Russo Business School, including those students with special needs.

Definitions and Abbreviations

Academic teaching staff – are staff principally engaged in academic teaching and management roles, including but not limited to lecturers.

Associate Dean – is an academic staff member appointed by the Executive Dean of the Russo Business School to have oversight of the management, delivery and performance of a course, subjects and reporting responsibilities and obligations in relation to a course and subjects.

Act – is the Higher Education Support Act 2003.

Appeal – is in response to a decision made on a particular matter. A complainant – is a person lodging a complaint.

Appellant – is a person lodging an appeal.

Australian Applicant – is an Australian citizen, a permanent resident or the holder of a permanent humanitarian visa.

Australian Tuition Assurance Scheme - The tuition assurance scheme has been put in place by the Government to protect and support students in the event of a FEE HELP course or provider closure.

Benchmarking – benchmarking is recognised as a means by which an entity can: demonstrate accountability to stakeholders; improve networking and collaborative relationships; generate management information; develop an increased understanding of practice, process or performance; and garner insights into how improvements might be made. For example, in the context of course accreditation, benchmarking involves comparing performance outcomes and/or processes of similar courses of study delivered by other providers. 'Internal benchmarking' against other relevant courses offered by the provider may also be undertaken.

Child/Children – is a person or persons under the age of 18.

Compassionate and/or Compelling circumstances are considered to be beyond the control of a student and have an impact upon the student's course progress or wellbeing. These could include, but are not limited to: serious illness or injury, where a medical certificate states that the student was unable to attend classes; bereavement of close family members such as parents or grandparents (where a death certificate should be provided); major political upheaval or natural disaster in the home country requiring emergency travel and this has impacted on the student's studies; a traumatic experience, which has impacted the student (these cases should be supported by police or psychologists' reports), which could include an involvement in, or witnessing of an accident, or witnessing or being the victim of crime; and/or inability to begin studying on the course Commencement Date due to delay in receiving a student visa.

Please note that the above are only some examples of what may be considered. Each request will be assessed individually based on the information provided and documentary evidence.

Complaint is a consequence of dissatisfaction with an aspect of a student's studies, student life, the institution or the institution's environment.

Complainant is a person lodging a complaint.

HELP means Higher Education Loan Program and has the meaning given by the Higher Education Support Act 2003.

International applicant is an applicant who does not hold citizenship of Australia or New Zealand, Australian permanent residence status or a permanent visa. The language of instruction at Russo Business School is English. International students must demonstrate a suitable level of English Language Proficiency before being admitted to a Russo Business School course.

Interruption of Studies is where a student due to Compassionate or Compelling circumstances is unable to continue in their studies for a study period. An application including evidence is required by the Russo Business School for due consideration.

National Code – Australian National Code of Practice for Providers of Education and Training to Overseas Students 2018.

Respondent is a person responding to a complaint or appeal.

Special consideration may be awarded by the Subject Lecturer prior to marking an assessment task or examination. Special consideration is usually awarded in extenuating circumstances to students who have attempted an assessment task or examination but consider their performance might be impacted by illness or some other unexpected or traumatic event or circumstance.

Policy

Russo Business School provides students with up to date information on a range of welfare and support services. This is available in a variety of modes. The information process commences prior to the formal orientation period, particularly for international students with details regarding accommodation, arrival and settling in services.

Staff are available on campus to assist students, informing them of the available welfare and support services.

Russo Business School provides a comprehensive face to face orientation program designed to assist the transition of all commencing students, domestic and international, to Higher Education life. This program includes information and ways of accessing the welfare and support resources, including those of particular importance to international students. For more information, please refer to our Student Handbook and Orientation PowerPoint available on our Website.

Staff who interact directly with international students are required to participate in relevant ESOS training to maintain currency with the regulations, and all staff are encouraged to access training.

Russo Business School is committed to providing students with a safe place of study and should a student feel threatened or if in danger they should report the matter to the appropriate authorities or a staff member when on campus. This includes, but not limited to prevention of sexual assault and harassment and an Information Technology Protocol as detailed in the Student Code of Conduct Policy.

Russo Business School Audit Risk and Compliance Committee within its terms of reference seek to identify and mitigate potential risks within the context of an education environment. Also to ensure compliance with relevant legislation, regulation and standards, including TEQSA Threshold Standards.
