

New Sales Tax Rules for Online Sellers

The long-standing physical presence requirement is no longer needed to trigger nexus, as the Supreme Court grants states authority to impose economic nexus laws on out-of-state transactions.

Who's on the hook for sales tax?

South Dakota's economic nexus law applies to any remote seller that isn't currently registered with the state and meets the threshold requirements: more than $100,000 in gross revenue from taxable sales, or 200 or more separate transactions for goods, electronically delivered products, or services.

Which states are on board?

South Dakota was the first to get permission from the court, but several other states with similar economic nexus rules will likely follow their lead. See the map below for states with either active or proposed economic nexus rules.

What is economic nexus?

Economic nexus is a tax collection obligation imposed on companies that have a certain level of economic activity within a state. Unlike nexus that's based on physical presence, economic nexus is based entirely on sales revenue, transaction volume, or a combination of both. Like many sales tax laws, economic nexus criteria vary by state.
