

Thomas Garatina, P.M.P.

Project Executive

 877.278.0700 x130

 Tgaratina@americansigncrafters.com

Thomas Garatina is Major Projects Executive and Director of Business Development for American and Interstate Signcrafters.

Tom has over 10 years' experience in the construction related project field and 6 years exclusively dedicated to signage projects and programs. Tom is the main point of contact, oversees all aspects of a project, and manages stakeholder relations.

He is responsible for many of the companies most high profile, complex projects and programs, including but not limited to: the Barclays Center, NBC Universal / 30 Rockefeller Center, J.W. Marriott Essex House, the Tonight Show with Jimmy Fallon, et al.

Over the past 4 years, Tom has been responsible for the management of nearly $25 million in signage programs.

In that time he has also executed projects and programs on behalf of Marriott International, global law firm White & Case, international chemicals conglomerate BASF, the world famous Howard Hughes Corporation, and many projects on behalf of, and in conjunction with, the world's preeminent design, development, and general contracting firms.

Tom holds a B.A. from the University of South Florida, a PMP certification from the Project Management Institute (PMI), and an OSHA 30 certification.

Industries

- Financial Services
- Healthcare
- Communications
- Commercial Real Estate
- Education
- Entertainment
- Hospitality & Restaurants
- Insurance
- Premium Retail
- Specialty Projects
- Stadium and University

Services

- Architectural Metal Work
- Fabrication
- Install
- Design
- Service
- Project Management