Mike Joyce, Founder and CTO

After serving as a US Air Force pilot, flying planes from the T-38 to the B-1 until 1996, Mike returned to his mathematics and computer science roots, developing software for private financial institutions. In 2004, he founded B9Creations, a specialty manufacturing company that initially produced robots.

By fall of 2011, Mike's passion for bringing technology to the broad population evolved to 3D printing. He led the business in that direction, developing and launching the B9Creator. Ready to scale his business in 2014, Mike enabled B9Creations to leverage the current IP portfolio he had built plus future product launches.

"Working to bring technology that can improve lives to market and be known as the company that delivers what it promises are my passions. I also enjoy running, hiking and spending time my family whenever I can."

-Mike

Scott Reisenauer, COO

As a mechanical engineer with over 20 years of manufacturing operations experience, Scott immediately saw the benefits of the B9Creator in advanced manufacturing when he began working with B9Creations in April of 2014.

Scott had previously led manufacturing organizations through substantial organic growth, major mergers, scaling operations and infrastructure to drive customer and employee satisfaction. Scott led multiple facilities while managing global procurement teams and suppliers, while constantly striving toward improving, teaching and building a great team culture. He plans to utilize those skills and experiences to help B9Creations grow and scale.

"B9Creations is a great place for me to show my passion for lean manufacturing, building teams, and scaling businesses. When I'm not at work, you can usually find me wakeboarding, reading, hiking, at the movies and spending time with my family."

-Scott
