

UNCLASSIFIED

ARMY CIO/G-6

Mr. Thomas Sasala

*Director, Army Architecture Integration Center
Office of the Chief Information Officer/G-6*

Mr. Sasala became the Director of the Army Architecture Integration Center at the Headquarters, Department of the Army Office, Office of the Chief Information Officer (CIO)/G-6 on February 5, 2017. As the Director, Mr. Sasala reports directly to the Army CIO/G-6 and is responsible for ensuring the interoperability and supportability of the Army's Information Technology Architectures, and for planning, developing, and implementation of the Army's Enterprise Architecture.

He previously served as the Chief Technology Officer for the Joint Service Provider and the U.S. Army Information Technology Agency (ITA); Chief Architect for the Analytic Transformation (AT) program for the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI), Intelligence Community Chief Information Officer (IC CIO); and as an engineer on the staff of the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory.

In 2014, Mr. Sasala received the Nextgov Bold Award for Innovation, recognizing his creative problem-solving, technical acumen, ambition, and persistence. In 2015, Mr. Sasala was named a "Fed 100" honoring the top 100 contributors across Federal, state, and local governments.

Mr. Sasala holds a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from Pennsylvania State University, and a Master of Science in Telecommunication and Computers from George Washington University.

References to any commercial products, processes, or services, or the use of any trade, firm or corporation name is for the information and convenience of the public; and does not constitute an endorsement, recommendation, or preferential treatment by the U.S. Army.