Avoid Roaming in Facilities

We appreciate the adjustments you have all made to help us reduce the spread of the COVID-19 virus in our workplace and communities. While many employees are currently working from home, there are still employees regularly and periodically reporting to facility locations.

Whether at home or in the office, we want to remind everyone of the importance of social distancing:

- For those who have been asked to work from home, please follow your leadership's direction and do not report to your company building or other facilities, unless it is necessary.
- For those that are currently reporting to one of our facilities, we ask that you make every effort to remain in the work areas that are critical for your job function, and reduce any unnecessary walking through buildings to socialize or for other purposes, whereby a phone-call or other communication vehicle could meet your initial purpose.

Thank you for your continued support as we power through together.

We make safety the most important part of everything we do.
