4th ANNUAL BRADLEY PRIZE CEREMONY

Prominent Civic Leaders, Academics to be Honored at Kennedy Center Event May 3

Milwaukee, WI— The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation will award the Fourth Annual Bradley Prizes for outstanding achievement to prominent intellectuals and public servants on May 3 in Washington, D.C.

The 2007 Bradley Prize recipients are: John Bolton, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations; Martin S. Feldstein, George F. Baker Professor of Economics, Harvard University; Abigail and Stephan Thernstrom, Senior Fellows at the Manhattan Institute and James Q. Wilson, Ronald Reagan Professor of Public Policy at Pepperdine University. Each award carries a stipend of $250,000.

FOX News Channel host and Washington Managing Editor Brit Hume will serve as Master of Ceremonies for the evening event. All four Bradley Prizes will be presented with the awards during a ceremony held at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. beginning at 7:30 p.m.

“These outstanding individuals are being recognized for achievements that are consistent with the mission statement of the Foundation, including the promotion of liberal democracy, democratic capitalism, and a vigorous defense of American institutions,” said Michael W. Grebe, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Bradley Foundation.

Founded in 1985, The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is devoted to strengthening American democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles and values that sustain and nurture it. Its programs support limited, competent government; a dynamic marketplace for economic, cultural activity; and a vigorous defense, at home and abroad, of American ideas and institutions. Recognizing that responsible self-government depends on enlightened citizens and informed public opinion, the Foundation supports scholarly studies and academic achievement.
