

Dashboards

Your company has a heart, a personality and a culture with your vision and leadership at the helm. This culture needs to be communicated constantly to ensure that your values, passions and requirements of your staff are met.

Performance dashboards are commonplace in recruitment businesses of all types, sizes and cultures, but far too often are purchased from suppliers as a “one size fits all” solution where the design and message is that of the developer. With Nasstar, we can design and develop your bespoke dashboards in line with your business.

How Can We Support You?

Our team works closely with your management team to thoroughly understand your culture, vision and business needs to ensure that your dashboards are designed and developed in line with how you run your business.

Whether you require a dashboard which is highly individual with a transactional activity focus, incentive focused or something in the middle, we will develop a solution which fully echoes your needs - we can even work with your designers if this is required.

With an average of over 15 years experience per team member, we are experts in recruitment technologies, developing and supporting applications for recruitment businesses. We understand the data, not just from your front office system, but also from your back office, telephony and other business support systems.
