Mission Planner: Simply works for you!

Independent mobile application

When you choose Mission Planner you get a device agnostic solution. All your driver needs is a device with an Android operating system. Furthermore, the app works independently from the black box in the vehicle. It integrates directly with your back-office software and navigation applications. This allows the app to gather all the data, including any 3rd party inputs, and the media files in any format that you require within one process flow.

Full customisation

Your process flow is the best match for your business. Consequently, we design and adjust the logic in Mission Planner to match your needs and requirements. Workflow remains simple to modify and update remotely. You don't have to redesign your operations to fit within the solution - we design the full workflow to match your process. As a customer you own the process. You define the mission steps in the desired sequence, control questions for each form and the dependencies between them.

All you need in simple form

Mission Planner assures the proper execution of assigned tasks. Thanks to a context-sensitive approach, it eliminates the overload of complicated information. The app accompanies the driver at each step of the mission, guiding him through the defined process flow within an active work assignment.

Mission Planner offers a complete representation of your workflow.

You know best what works for your company and how your operations are structured. That's why we have the app to match your needs and process.

How does it work

Each work assignment created in the app consists of a flexible flow of forms. Each form contains questions, set up in line with the process rules defined by you as a customer. Consecutive workflow question forms appear in a logical order, adapted to sequential tasks in the work assignment.

The driver follows the process within the app, providing inputs whenever requested. Based on the answers given by the driver, consecutive questions appear. In this way the app gives clear instructions to the driver at each step of the workflow. The use of self-explanatory icons allows the driver to quickly identify the current process stage and what is yet to come. With one look at the screen he knows exactly where he is in comparison to the complete mission plan and what following steps are to be taken.

Easier management and a clean process overview in a flexible format translate into clear feedback loops and better reports in the back-office. With custom notifications you are always on track whenever additional action is required or when the mission progress does not match the plan.
