Decide right off the bat what you will need your planter for. You may want to define a walkway, improve an interior, or create privacy. The new Seoul rectangular planter is wonderful for simple aesthetic needs, while the Narbonne rectangular planter is excellent for creating privacy walls.

Impressive sizes are frequently found in front of city halls or large performance venues. On the other hand, stout, wide planters make great containers for herbs and vegetables used at restaurants. Our new Rio Grande round planters are great for displaying herb gardens to attract visitors.

Amsterdam

The size of your space needs to be calculated with precision, including projected plant growth. A 30-foot door and a 7-foot door demand different size planters, so choose accordingly. For particular styles, we provide varied sizes; for example, the Amsterdam rectangular tapered planter comes in two great size options.

HOW TO CHOOSE THE PERFECT FIBERGLASS PLANTER

Globe

Whether you just need to add greenery to a drab wall or define an entire space, planter selection matters. If visual focus to a particular area is important, a show-stopper like the Globe modern planter could be ideal.

Casablanca

The size of your foliage is important when considering planters. Trees need planters accommodating deep roots for stability, but a stout, round planter filled with colorful flowers requires less depth. Our new Casablanca low bowl planter is perfect for delicate, voluminous flowers.

In many instances, planters are used as an affordable way to solve a problem, like to conceal electrical equipment, create privacy, or define a walkway. The best planters to conceal and create barriers include our Badalona, Hudson, Brisbane, and Perth large rectangular boxes.

Brisbane

Try to balance the shape of your planter with surrounding objects or focal points. For instance, if you want to place planters near a very modern, minimalistic piece of furniture, consider a more classic silhouette like that of the Alicante ribbed round planter.
