Connect With More Consumers

National brands that rely on local sales channels to connect with consumers and sell their products and services can face many marketing operational challenges.

Fortunately, there is a simple solution: Marketing Resource Management (MRM).

Marketing Resource Management

Marketing resource management (MRM) helps national brands connect with more local consumers by streamlining local marketing initiatives.

By bringing corporate and sales channels together, MRM can help generate more revenue through compelling, customizable and branded local marketing campaigns.

MRM: How it Works

- 1 Marketing campaigns and customizable templates are loaded into MRM system
- ⋮
- 2 Local sales teams access campaigns and update materials with contact information, demographics, co-branding, local pricing and rates, and other relevant information
- ⋮
- 3 Corporate teams review, approve or request changes based on local team's updates
- ⋮
- 4 Once approved, materials are sent directly to local markets or to consumers

MRM: Delivering a Clear Impact on the Bottom Line

Marketing resource management delivers many tangible benefits for a company. From increasing brand awareness to boosting sales, an MRM is an important part of local marketing initiatives.

MRM Benefits:

- Cost savings on marketing operations-related tasks
- Improved local marketing efforts
- Minimized compliance and regulatory exposure
- Improved strategic insight

Save Money on Marketing Operations

MRM delivers many business benefits. One of those is considerable cost savings with streamlined marketing operations.

Save money on printing, promotional and postage costs.

- Group direct mail drops reduce postage costs
- Reduce print waste by delivering accurate quantities and pieces that local stores and sales channels can use
- The print and promotional savings alone can sometimes offset the cost of the technology

Enable marketing teams to spend more time on strategic initiatives that generate revenue, and less time on operational tasks.

- Automate redundant and time-intensive tasks like tracking approvals, validating data such as mailing lists and much more

Improve Local Marketing Efforts

MRM systems make it easy to reach consumers and share effective, branded messages on products and services.

Connect with more consumers.

- Easy-to-access and easy-to-use campaigns are more readily adopted by local sales teams, getting your brand in front of more customers

Compelling, relevant messages give consumers a stronger reason to believe – and buy.

- Customizable templates deliver personalized messages for a stronger impact with local consumers

Minimize Compliance and Regulatory Exposure

Violating compliance or regulatory requirements can result in hefty fines and legal fees. An MRM system helps protect a brand with the necessary safeguards to ensure local sales teams implement brand-approved, and compliant, local marketing campaigns.

- Automated approval process helps reduce compliance and regulatory risk
- Electronic approval process provides a paper trail to help reduce audit times
- MRM portal can save necessary files, as needed, to help in case of an audit

Improve Strategic Insight

MRM systems give marketing teams a high-level, strategic view on what's happening across multiple regions to help develop effective, insightful plans that resonate with consumers and generate revenue. With MRM, marketing teams can:

- Identify marketing trends and campaign usage rates
- Share best practices with sales channels to boost local sales in under-performing regions
- Maximize marketing spend across media channels and regions for bigger reach and impact

Our entire company, in fact every single person who works here, is dedicated to developing, building, enhancing, and delivering simple technology — products and services that seamlessly organize, customize, print, ship and deliver meaningful marketing materials to virtually any channel, platform or location.

What we build does more than just work; we provide solutions that deliver precisely what each company needs, what each person within a company needs. Our people create order and simplicity in a space that is filled with complication. It is their dedication, their energy and their unwavering determination to simplify, ease transitions, solve problems and build relationships.
