Terry Bagley, President of the Door Entry and Facility Automation division at Janus commented on the PMS integrations:

"Our SecurGuard Smart Entry System offers self-storage facility owners and operators unprecedented levels of security and access control. The natural next step was to integrate with a wide variety of property management systems, and in doing so, streamline the rental process to allow site managers as well as customers the opportunity to interact with their sites and units in an elevated way the industry has never seen before. We're excited to continue to grow our list of PMS integrations, and look forward to changing the rental experience of more customers by doing so."
