About the accident

Mr M was involved in a pedestrian road traffic collision, sustaining a catastrophic C5 spinal cord injury and traumatic brain injury (subdural haematoma and fractured skull).

He was in an induced coma for five weeks following the accident and was transferred to a Spinal Cord Injury Centre 80 miles away from his home.

The challenges faced by Mr M

When initially speaking to CFG Law, Mr M was suffering from anxiety and low mood due to having no psychological support. He was also feeling isolated, and finding it difficult to keep in touch with family and friends who lived far away from where he was being treated.

Mr M was struggling with movement in his arms and was recommended specialist hand therapy technology to aid his recovery. During his rehabilitation, Mr M became concerned that his doctors were focusing only on treating his spinal injuries and not his suspected brain injury. He was becoming worried about his memory and concentration, which were different from before the accident. Due to the severity of his spinal cord injury, Mr M felt that these issues were going to be overlooked.

Unfortunately, after being discharged from the hospital, Mr M also wasn't provided with suitable housing to continue his rehabilitation.

How CFG Law helped with these challenges

Having spoken to Mr M to understand the difficulties he was facing, we were keen to support him in any way we could. To help Mr M stay in touch with his family, we immediately paid for a mobile phone and helped him with travel expenses for his family and friends to visit him through our emergency funding.

This funding is a sum of money that CFG Law can pay out to eligible clients. It can help pay for immediate financial issues, such as travel expenses, treatment and rehabilitation. We claim this money back as part of the compensation claim.

To help Mr M's treatment, we sourced and funded the private specialist hand therapy that was recommended by the hospital.

This treatment helped Mr M to improve the mobility in his arms, as he couldn't hold cutlery or a mobile phone, amongst other problems. Crucially, we also arranged for а private Neuropsychologist to visit him on the ward. This helped Mr M with the memory and concentration problems he was having due to his brain injury.

The lack of suitable housing for Mr M was a huge issue after he was discharged. As there wasn't anything available through statutory services, our Client Support Manager worked with local authorities to see what could be done. Thanks to our connections with Aspire, a prominent Spinal Cord Injury Charity, we arranged a privately rented, suitably adapted bungalow. This gave Mr M a comfortable home to move into and begin his rehabilitation journey.

We also helped Mr M with other financial issues and benefits advice. This included funding specialist treatment and equipment, as well as helping with debt management, which allowed Mr M to focus on rebuilding his life after leaving the hospital.

Mr M also received support from a specialist spinal cord injury Case Manager to help coordinate his care, treatment, therapy and equipment once he left the hospital.

The Defendant denied any responsibility for the accident, and their insurers refused to release interim funds to help pay for the treatment Mr M needed. We argued against this decision and secured a substantial interim payment for Mr M to attend The Royal Buckinghamshire Hospital – a leading private spinal injuries rehabilitation centre. Mr M received personalised inpatient care for three months, which allowed him to increase his physical stamina and general wellbeing. This helped Mr M to return to his Aspire bungalow in the best position possible to continue his rehabilitation.

The results and outcome

The defendants wanted to attend a Joint Settlement Meeting to decide who was to blame for the accident. We quickly informed them that Mr M would not accept any responsibility. We did agree to meet, however, if it was to agree on a settlement for the case. The defendant's insurer agreed to this meeting, and we were able to work on organising an appropriate settlement for Mr M.

Working with Mr M's Case Manager, we agreed on the following goals before the Joint Settlement Meeting:

- Moving Mr M to his preferred location closer to a specialist spinal injuries treatment centre.
- Renting a larger, adapted bungalow specially adapted for his needs.
- Organising the services of a care agency, specialising in spinal cord injury.
- Getting specialist equipment including a wheelchair, hand bike, easy stand glider and a Mollii suit – all of which were recommendations from Mr M's private treating team.

The results and outcome

At the Joint Settlement Meeting, we agreed to a settlement for £6.5m within two years of instruction. Mr M is also receiving independent financial advice on how to make sure all of his needs are covered for his lifetime. Mr M is delighted he has the means to live the most independent life he can after his spinal injury.

Mr M is now making travel plans and has promised to send us postcards from his future adventures!

Quote from the client

"I feel so lucky to have chosen CFG to handle my case as when you have an accident you don't know who to Trust. From day one they made me feel secure, reassured and they also kept me fully informed throughout the whole process.
